

Scanlon named town clerk

by Arlene Surprenant
Assistant Town Clerk Kay Scanlon has been appointed to succeed Patty Ward as Wilmington's new town clerk. Scanlon will be sworn in January 13 but will begin her new job January 20.

Scanlon was one of 13 applicants to apply for the job by the November 15 deadline. According to Town Manager Michael Caira, all applicants went through a special screening process until a screening committee, consisting of Assistant Town Manager Jeff Hull, Caira's secretary Peg Tarrantino, and Ward, narrowed down the semi-finalists to four finalists. All finalists were interviewed by Caira who last week chose Scanlon for the job.

Caira told this paper, though he was impressed by the quality of those who applied, Scanlon's experience and her effective inter-personal skills went far in deciding in her favor.

"She exudes an air of professionalism and meets my expectations," explained Caira. He said Scanlon has the right temperament for the job and displays loyalty to the town, which is important since the town clerk's office is "the office of the people."

Scanlon has served as assistant town clerk for 14 years. She took over the position about the same time Ward stepped in as Town Clerk. Prior to that position, Scanlon was employed at various times with the board of appeals, the tax collectors' office, and the board of assessors.

Scanlon told the Town Crier she was pleased with the appointment and thanked both Ward and Caira for encouraging her to apply. She referred to her predecessor as "exemplary" and said together both women "worked hard to improve the office." Ward explained both she and Scanlon, who have been friends dating back to their years at Wilmington High, have complemented each other and formed a "joint partnership" which she will miss once she takes her leave at town hall. Ward downplayed the role she played in suggesting Scanlon apply for the job.

"I wanted her to make up her own mind. I didn't push her because I know what's involved. You have to love the job to do it justice," she said.

Scanlon will serve as town clerk at the discretion of the town manager or until she retires. The job pays in the mid $30,000 range.

Caira complimented both women when he said in summation, "Kay's more than capable of stepping into those (Ward's) very big shoes."

Scanlon is the daughter of the late Deputy Police Chief Francis "Nifty" Hoban. She is married to Dick Scanlon, a psychology teacher and at Wilmington High School, where he also coaches baseball and soccer. The Scanlons have four children and one grandson.

New town clerk

Assistant Town Clerk Kay Scanlon will move up to the job of town clerk later this month when Town Clerk Pat Ward retires. Mrs. Scanlon has been assistant town clerk for 14 years.

Pat Ward closes books on era as town clerk

by Arlene Surprenant
After 14 years on the job, Wilmington Town Clerk Pat Ward is stepping down. Ward's last day will be January 17.

Ward began working for the town about 22 years ago, first in the health department then as assistant town clerk. She started out part time strictly to bring in some extra money for her family.

"I went to work part time until we got over the hurdle but we never did. Now my 22 years of part time is up," laughs Ward, adding, "I've put lots of things on hold; now I feel it's my time."

Ward's immediate plans call for an extended trip to Melbourne, Florida with friends then home to see her grandson Kenny and to help celebrate granddaughter Deana's 13th birthday.

"From then on I'm kind of winging it," said Ward who added, besides travel, she was most looking forward to catching up on her reading and crafts.

Ward said she will most miss the interaction with people she's met through her job.

"I've worked with some great people. I've had a lot of heartaches in my life, but I've had some true friends who go back to childhood. You don't go through this life alone; you achieve what you achieve because of the encouragement of family and friends and people around you," she said.

The best part of the job for Ward has been the feeling that she's been a part of the town's history. She's also enjoyed helping residents who come to her in the course of a day. One of the hardest parts of Ward's job has been trying to keep minutes and keep up with all the amendments and motions that occur at town meetings. During town meeting,

Ward would sit on the dais and try to keep a professional demeanor and not smile at old friends who were in attendance. She said she didn't want her friends and residents to feel she was reacting to what they were saying.

Ward stresses that after working with her assistant Kay Scanlon for the past 14 years she's sure Scanlon will be successful filling her shoes as the next town clerk.

"It's been fun. But now I'm closing a chapter in my life and looking forward to the next one," said Ward.

Town Manager Michael Caira has nothing but praise for the job Ward has done.

"I'm going to miss her. I've relied on her for good information and sound advice," said Caira. He added Ward has "never coasted" and, even now, is still coming in early and staying late.

Kennedy visits

Wilmington residents were in attendance in South Tewksbury on Tuesday afternoon when Sen. Ted Kennedy visited a neighborhood adjacent to the Tewksbury dump. Located near the Wilmington town line and Route 93, the dump is of concern for pollutants leaking into the air and groundwater. Residents of Bemis Circle, off South Street, blame the dump for several cases of cancer in the neighborhood. In spite of court orders, bonds have not been posted and state action has been lagging. Sen. Kennedy, shown shaking hands with Judy Fittery, said he had no magic wand but pledged his support. In the background is Kennedy aide Scott Person.

Fight halts girls' hoop

Friday night's Wilmington High School vs. Lawrence girls' junior varsity basketball game was halted with 33 seconds left to play when the contest erupted into a fight between players from both teams.

Wilmington and state police were called to the scene in what one longtime local basketball observer termed "a total overreaction."

Apparently earlier in the game a Lawrence player was called for a flagrant foul after punching a Wilmington girl. The physical contact escalated to the point where the referees determined that the game be halted late in the fourth quarter when a Lawrence player fired a ball at the face of a Wilmington player.

Swain School site for food pantry

by Arlene Surprenant
The Commissary, Wilmington's first food pantry, has found a home in the old Swain School and should be open for business by the end of the month.

Bob DiPalma, who is spearheading the project along with Community Fund President Jim Hatchey, told this paper residents and organizations who have food or money to donate should take them to room 101 at the Swain School next Tuesday between 6:30 and 8 p.m. He explained the Commissary will open its doors to local families in need as soon as the shelves are stocked, hopefully by the following week.

DiPalma said, thanks to the generosity of local citizens, the Commissary has received donations of tables, chairs, shelving, two freezers, and one refrigerator. In addition, "numerous" residents have called both himself and Hatchey to volunteer their services in some way, DiPalma said.

Many of the volunteers told DiPalma they wanted to give something back in gratitude for all they have. In many cases, whole families are volunteering their time.

DiPalma and Hatchey expect to distribute food on a weekly basis. While the Commissary is meant to help local families, no one in need will be turned away, said DiPalma. He stressed a core of volunteers will serve at the Swain School distribution center while others will be asked to start up neighborhood food drives to assure a steady supply of canned foods and pre-packaged food. DiPalma is currently in the process of typing up a letter to be sent to local churches and fraternal organizations seeking support. An announcement will also be included in the next Chamber of Commerce newsletter about the pantry.

"We're going to do whatever works. The demand (for food) is greater than any of us is prepared to realize at this time. It's scary," said DiPalma adding, "the need isn't going to go away any time soon."

Residents who wish to donate some time to work at the Pantry should call either Bob (658-5107) or Jim (658-6617). Food donations, or cash to purchase food, may be taken to the Commissary beginning Tuesday, January 14. Foods most in demand are staples like rice, cereal, baked beans, pasta, tomato sauce, peanut butter, meals in cans, prepackaged meals, dry milk, baby food, coffee, tea, soup, tuna fish, flour and sugar. The Swain School is located on Middlesex Avenue across from the town common.

Town won't appeal EIR

by Arlene Surprenant
Though the Northeast Interceptor Sewer Project could be at least a year away after town meeting voters rescinded funding for the trunk line in December, Town Manager Michael Caira may be looking for money to complete a required Environmental Impact Report at the upcoming April town meeting.

Caira told the Town Crier that he and Water and Sewer Commissioners agree they will not appeal Massachusetts Environmental Policy Act (MEPA)'s decision to require the EIR. He said he is considering the possibility of drafting an article appropriating funds for the EIR. Caira explained the necessary money could come from the bond authorization for engineering for the sewer line or from surplus funds in the water and sewer department's coffers.

"It makes little or no sense to appeal the decision," said Caira. He added the town was "probably" looking to the April 1993 town meeting to bring back the sewer project, perhaps under a different method of funding than betterments.

Three candidates pull papers

by Arlene Surprenant
Candidates in Wilmington will be vying for nine open seats on five boards in the April 18 election. To date, only three residents have taken out nomination papers for those seats, according to Town Clerk Patty Ward.

One of the hottest races could be for three open three year seats on the Wilmington School Committee. Up for re-election this year are Chairman Aldo Caira, John DeMarco, and Andrea Paglia. The board of selectmen will have two three year seats vacant, those of Bob Doucette and Chester Bruce. There will also be two seats open on the Wilmington Housing Authority. The five year seat is presently unfilled and belonged to Michael Donovan. The three year seat belonged to Dave Fitzgerald and is presently filled by Al Meegan. Also up for re-election this year are John Gillis, who served for three years on the Shawshen Tech school Committee, and Vaughn Surprenant, who served for the past five years on the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority.

Ward said only three citizens have pulled papers so far. They are Gillis, who is seeking another term on the Tech School Committee; Brad Jackson, who hopes to succeed in another bid for the School Committee; and Tom Siracusa, who is going after one of the two seats on the board of selectmen.

Nomination papers may be taken out at the town clerk's office anytime from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. until the February 27 deadline.

Duggan to retire

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington Town Manager Michael Caira is looking for a new superintendent of the water department to replace Paul Duggan when he officially retires January 31.

Duggan has worked for the water and sewer department for the past 30 years. He began in 1961, worked up to a foreman's position, and then that of a superintendent in 1980.

"Now, said Duggan, "it's time to go." He added, "they're going to have to get along without me because it's time for a change."

Duggan submitted his resignation last year. He told this paper, while he has no specific plans as to how he'll occupy his time during retirement, his wife Marcia "has enough projects for me to do at home." On a more serious note he said he first plans to take some time for himself before seeking work in "another capacity."

"I'm going to be dead a lot longer than I'm alive so why wait until you're 65 or 70 to retire?" he asked.

Duggan said he will especially miss his fellow employees and people he's met and worked with over the years, once he leaves.

Currently, said Duggan, Caira is looking for his replacement and reviewing resumes for the job.

"To my knowledge the job hasn't been filled," said Duggan.

Deacon Harnden home fell victim to Route 93

by Capt. Larz Neilson

"Infuriated residents next morning pursued, and rescued the children."

So say accounts of the Harnden Massacre, printed during the past century. Those words should be examined more closely.

A man named Eaton in Reading over 100 years ago wrote of the genealogy of his town, together with discussions of other events than who begat who.

He tells in one instance of Capt. Richard Walker, a resident of Lynn in 1630. Walker moved to Lynn Village and paid, in 1646, a tax of one pound. Later he moved to Woburn where he had the first liquor license in that town. Three years later, after a dispute about liquor sales, he was a selectman of Woburn.

His descendants were early settlers of Goshen, a part of Woburn now Wilmington. They took part in constructing the first school house, 1720, near Butters Row.

Eaton reports that Walker commanded the first infantry company in Reading, while he lived in the west side of what is now Wakefield. He had, says Eaton, many conflicts and many narrow escapes from the Indians.

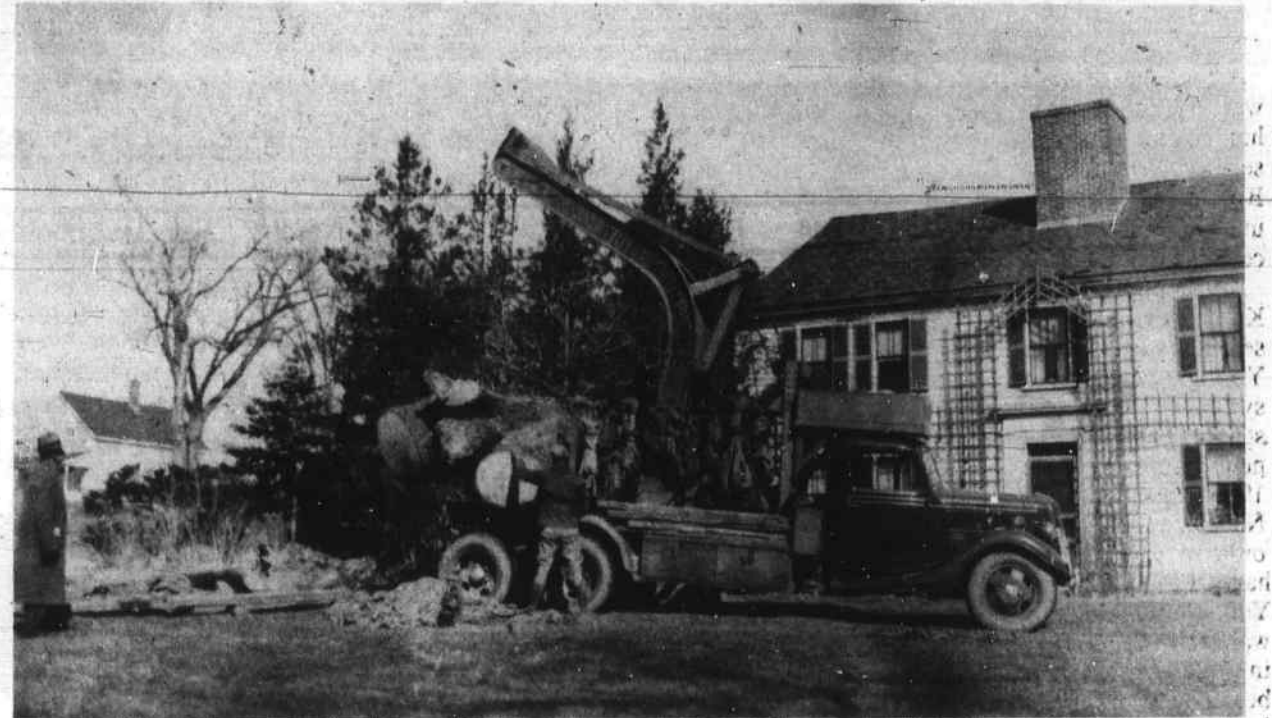

Eaton also recorded early slaves, presumably in Wakefield. There were 16 males and six females. He also noted the construction of the first Garrison house in what is now North Reading, on the Flint farm in 1676.

Richard Harnden, Eaton reports, about 1685 paid money into an account to pay the Indians for land that had been taken by Reading. Harnden was one of 110 men who did this. In 1686 he paid three pounds two shilling as an assessment toward the erection of a meeting house.

Eight children of Deacon John Harnden were named by Eaton. Sarah was born in 1708, after the massacre. Her mother must have been the second wife, Sarah Sherman, of Deacon John of Reading.

This shows that seven children born to John and Susanna, John's first wife. Of these two died young. Later arrivals had the same name. It thus seems that only five children were alive that night when the Abnaki began to chop a hole through the Harnden roof.

Susanna and three children were killed. Abigail was wounded in the back and thrown into the pond. Only one child was left, four year old John. It was he, it seems, who the "infuriated neighbors" rescued next morning.

John Harnden house

This Harnden home, constructed after the Harnden Massacre by Reading Deacon John Harnden, as it appeared in September 1938. The photo shows the removal of a tree which blew over in the hurricane of 1938.

At far left is Herb Barrows, owner of the North Wilmington Nurseries of which the Harnden home was a part. Other Barrows employees at the time included Joe Barton, Myrt Sheldon, Harry Sheldon, and George Hood.

Deacon John moved into the Richard Harnden house with his children, Benjamin and Elizabeth and their children were living there, Elizabeth 1692, Hannah 1694, the second Benjamin 1697 and twins Richard and Samuel, 1699.

The first Richard had died. There seems to be no record of his wife Mary. Deacon John constructed a new home, about 400 feet easterly and downhill, on the east side of The Andover Road.

That home remained standing for about 250 years, an historic home. It was burned down by the state August 2, 1958, to make room for the new Interstate Highway 93.

Four or more generations of the Harnden family had lived in that home, Deacon John of Reading, Deacon John of Wilmington, Captain John and John Jr., who died in 1853. After his death the home was sold to a member of the Gowing family.

No one seemed to know of the history of that home when the state burned it. It was misidentified in the Historical Address of 1880, by the Rev. Daniel Noyes, an address which took two Sundays to deliver. Presumably the church was filled with members of the old families. Presumably any errors by the Rev. Mr. Noyes would have been noted.

It was 18 months after those historical addresses that the selectmen of Wilmington ordered that they be printed. That means, to this writer that there was good reason to believe it was the gospel truth.

Not far distant from the Harnden home, in what is now North Reading, dwelt the family of Francis and Sarah Nurse. Francis was the son of Rebecca Nurse, a woman executed as a witch in Salem. The youngest in that family was Jonathan. He and Abigail were married in 1713, after which he lived for only four years.

On May 8, 1720 Abigail Nurse married Daniel Eames, the son of Samuel, a man born in Woburn. They became the ancestors of many members of the Eames family in Wilmington. Their home was the present home of Mrs. Wolff, across from Wildwood Street, on the ancient Andover Road, 504 Woburn Street.

Deacon John of Reading became a Reading selectman in 1709-10. His brother Benjamin was a selectman of Reading in 1713 and 1719.

Residents of Nod, Goshen and Shawsheen (now Burlington) were talking, in the next 10 years, of having too far to walk to church on Sunday mornings. The younger John was one of the participants in the conversations.

Another was James Thompson, who lived near the present line with Tewksbury. He wrote his name James. He had been a deacon in the Woburn church and had lived for some years southerly from the present Wilmington square.

Those two men became the deacons of the new Wilmington church in 1730. They were in charge of arranging for the preaching, and Deacon John was the first "cash keeper."

Both men were also the first teachers in Wilmington. They took turns teaching in the school house at the corner of Butters Row and Main Street.

WHO QUALIFIES AS AN INDEPENDENT CONTRACTOR?

When is a working person not an employee? When he or she is an independent contractor. But now the Internal Revenue Service is taking a closer look at who actually qualifies for that status.

There are a number of tests to determine this including: whether the person is paid by the job or by the hour; who sets the work schedule; where the job has to be done; whether the person receives income from a number of customers or clients during the year, rather than just one.

The issue, of course, is taxes. If an independent contractor is ruled an employee, the employer is liable for payroll taxes and the employer's share of Social Security and Medicare taxes, plus any income and Social Security taxes that should have been withheld from the employee. And the worker, no longer an independent contractor, may find a Keogh plan invalid and business deductions disallowed, resulting in sizable tax liabilities.

Victim of "progress"

The Harnden house was burned down by the state on August 3, 1958 to make way for the construction of Route 93. This scene is looking northwest from what is now the northbound lane of Route 93, a hundred yards north of the Park Street bridge.

Crescent Ave. home condemned

by Arlene Surprenant
After almost nine months of waiting for a Crescent Avenue homeowner to repair her failed septic system, the Wilmington Board of Health moved unanimously last Monday to condemn her home.

Health officials originally ordered Karla Young to take care of her septic system April 2, 1987. When Young agreed to pump out the system on a regular basis the board stepped out of the picture until a new complaint was filed in April 1991. A public hearing was held last November at which time Young was ordered to abate the nuisance or have her home condemned. After Young informed the board she was waiting for a loan to come through in order to pay for repairs, the board extended its deadline. The homeowner told the board she did get the money but when the system still wasn't repaired members agreed unanimously to condemn her home because it was unfit for human habitation and evict the homeowner.

According to Health Director Greg Erickson he was unsure of the actual time frame necessary to evict Young. He added because this is the first eviction for the board of health, he would have to check the process with town counsel.

Channel 30 airs 'Uniquely Wilmington'

by Arlene Surprenant
Do you want to know more about Wilmington? Now you can tune in "Uniquely Wilmington," a local cable show airing on Channel 30 each Thursday from 7:30 to 8 p.m., and learn about local people, places, and events.

"Uniquely Wilmington" got underway in December with a magazine format in the tradition of "Evening Magazine" and "Good Day." In fact, it was the demise of "Good Day" that led WCTV General Manager Karen Kirk to come up with the idea.

"I was really upset when 'Good Day' went off the air," said Kirk, explaining that she felt Wilmington residents might benefit from a similar type show.

One and a half months ago Kirk advertised for co-hosts and four people showed up. Of those, Kirk chose J.T. Turner of Wildwood Street and Ann Marie Meeker from Gearty Street. Kirk said Turner spoke "very knowledgeably" about his home, the historic Buck House, and got the job along with Meeker, who will use the experience as a stepping stone into the field of television. Both co-hosts are working on a volunteer basis.

Each show consists of two 10 minute segments as well as a summary of local events. The shows will change monthly. The segments are being produced by local talent under the direction of Kirk. All volunteer producers either have taken a course in production or have some familiarity with video equipment said Kirk. It is the producers who come up with the idea for a segment; then they work with the co-hosts to put together the show. For instance, Gregg Connolly videotaped the December tree lighting ceremony and became the producer of the second segment of the show for the month of December. The first segment was on the local Chamber of Commerce and Chamber President Ray Forest. That show will air until mid-January.

"The segments are usually on something close to them (the producers)," said Kirk, adding, "I expect eventually I will have less and less control over each show as the people are more and more able to create the show themselves."

Kirk is encouraging other residents who have ideas for future shows to come forward and try their hand at production. Shows could cover such things as a specific person like a local athlete or student or the environment or a funny happening. The ideas, said Kirk, are endless. One thing she refuses to do is send a camera crew out to cover a story idea which is phoned in to the cable studio in the old Swain School.

"The idea is to train them to do a show themselves," she said.

For further information, would-be producers may reach Kirk at 657-4066.

Several appeals granted by board

Several applications for the granting of appeals were granted on December 20, by the Wilmington Board of Appeals. Some of the decisions had been pending for more than a few months.

Variances in streets in which there would be insufficient frontage, width, area and/or setbacks were granted for Cambridge Avenue and Somerville Avenue, both off Aldrich Road; Pembroke Street, off Marion Street; and Bates Avenue, a way in the "Lost Colony" property in the northeast section of Wilmington, adjacent to the Town of North Reading.

Edward Lord was granted a variance which allows him to demolish a dwelling and add another parcel to property located on Morse Avenue and Melrose Street, in order to provide room for a septic system.

Scott Peacock was granted a variance for a lot at 36 Marion Street, a lot having insufficient front yard setback. The proposed dwelling is planned to be approximately 14 feet from the street line.

Mark Lopez was granted a variance to erect a single family dwelling on a lot having insufficient frontage, area and width, located at 87 Aldrich Road.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:
I would like the opportunity to respond to the letter in your paper by Ann Buccì.

I am one of those town residents you referred to as being at the Board of Health meeting. I am also a two year home owner on Bemis Circle. I would like to respond to you and anyone else who may agree with your views.

The first comment made was that Rocco's was "all rubbish, but is now part hazardous waste." If the materials that went into that landfill were only the products or bi-products of "Tewksbury only" as they were supposed to be, none of us would be concerned about this issue. Did you know that massive quantities of known industrial/commercial hazardous wastes from everywhere in Mass and at least three other states were deposited there illegally? Does anyone believe these states would pay to haul these materials to Rocco's if they were not extremely hazardous and therefore, the most difficult to dispose of?

The landfill was opened as a "temporary site" in 1957; Bemis Circle was built in 1955, two years before the dump. In fact most of the residential homes on South Street were built between 1950 and 1960. Still, this small, temporary, burning dump for Town rubbish only, was not of anyone's concern.

To address the comment about health hazard, we don't know for sure yet to what degree we are at risk. Judy Fittory or anyone else in this area may as well go on top of it, because anything we would be exposed to there we are already exposed to every day and night at our own homes. Remember that the reason this group got together was the concern about odors coming from the dump.

Some of the issues brought up were about Mrs. Rocco; this issue is my personal favorite. This has become a text book example of how someone can do what they want, to whom they want, where they want, for as long as they want and get away with it. Enough is enough! Do not portray Mrs. Rocco as a poor old woman or I'll be sick! She has broken the law time after time, ignored court orders, defied the town, not paid taxes, raped the land, and best of all managed to funnel hundreds of thousands of dollars into the "untouchable zone." So if we acted like "wild animals" at the possibility of justice, maybe we have been in the zoo too long! If Mrs. Rocco isn't responsible as landowner for everything she has been accused of, maybe she should start cooperating by telling someone who is.

I also would like to educate you on the coyote issue; coyotes are at the top of the food chain. A high population of food chain leaders (which there is at Rocco's) indicates something is unnatural in the environment and something is wrong. This is far from an indication the wildlife is coming back.

In conclusion, maybe we are causing a panic; why not, nothing else has corrected the problem. We are going to stop activity on that site - period! I suspect Ms. Buccì doesn't live in this area; therefore, doesn't smell the chemicals. In addition, nine out of 10 people in 1991 wouldn't purchase a home next to a known chemical dump; therefore, I'm sure Ms. Buccì doesn't feel the financial burden either. I wish people would get the facts about things before developing an opinion - that's a major reason we have all the problems we have today. Tewksbury residents take heart - we are in control now!

Dear Larz:

A few weeks ago, I read an article in the Town Crier concerning a woman who was being forced by the Wilmington Board of Health to repair a failed septic system. After reading this article I decided to write to you because it was upsetting to see that Wilmington has two sets of rules in the Board of Health Department. Your article stated that the woman had two weeks to repair this faulty septic system with a new system, it also stated that she was trying to secure a loan to complete this task in March of 1992.

This two week period is where the Board of Health begins with its second set of rules it seems! The reason for this comment is that on my street for the past two years, I have been trying to get the Board of Health to have an absentee landlord repair an overflowing septic system! I personally sent photos of the sewerage flowing down the street to the Board of Health. Why is the woman in the article any different than the absentee landlord? If anything she should be given some credit for trying to solve the problem with the town.

The absentee landlord hasn't done anything to solve his problem. Are there different rules for landlords, or do residents only have to fix their systems? Other investigation into Wilmington's septic system problems would be appreciated.

Name withheld by request.

Dear Larz:

As a registered voter and homeowner in Tewksbury, I would like to know why the townspeople have not been made aware of the fact that soon Tewksbury State Hospital will inherit some of the state's criminally insane (most of whom have committed violent crimes) and juveniles who are guilty of murder, rape and child molestation. How can the state consider this an adequate facility for these individuals when Livingston Street Park and the Junior High School are within walking distance? It has also been rumored that these "patients" will be allowed to walk freely about the grounds! I would like to know, as I suspect other concerned residents would, how the state Department of Health plans on keeping track of these individuals and what will happen if one just happens to wander off...let's say to the park! Why doesn't Gov. Weld take a lesson from Gov. Dukakis. Didn't his furlough program prove a complete failure when a convicted rapist who was allowed a furlough went out and committed a rape! The residents of Tewksbury do not want to worry if they or their children are safe every time they go outside.

I have no objection to the state putting the hospital to full use but I feel that if they are going to house these sorts of individuals, they should take the necessary precautions to protect the citizens of Tewksbury. In my opinion the grounds should be completely fenced in, these individuals should not be allowed freedom to roam the grounds without supervision, and the hospital should be equipped with sufficient personnel to handle all unexpected problems.

Finally, I would like to know what benefits if any this will bring to Tewksbury. Will we receive more aid from the state due to this increased burden? Will the state allot more funds to Tewksbury this fiscal year, since any problems arising at the hospital would be an added financial burden to the town? Did the state investigate whether or not we have sufficient manpower in our departments to handle such a burden? I think these questions need to be answered.

A representative from Gov. Weld's Department of Health should attend a special town meeting so that the concerned citizens of Tewksbury can voice their opinions and be made fully aware of the plans and intentions for Tewksbury State Hospital.

Radon an unseen and ignored hazard

by Gregory Erickson
Wilmington Director of Public Health

Now that the winter months are upon us once again, it's time to have your house tested for Radon. "Why in winter?" you might ask. In the cold months, your house is closed up tight to keep in the heat. It also keeps in the Radon gas which is migrating into the house from the earth below and makes it able to accumulate to a high concentration.

Radon is one of the by products of the decay of uranium which exists naturally in the earth. Since Radon is a gas, it can enter into a house or other building through the basement or slab and then accumulate inside.

Does your house have Radon in it? Yes, most probably it does. Almost all houses tested have some level of Radon. One in four houses (25 percent) have levels of four picoCuries per liter of air or more. Four pCi/L is the EPA "action level" at which some work or modification should be done to prevent the infiltration or accumulation of the gas.

Can it hurt you? You bet it can. Radon kills more people every year in the U.S. than handguns (17,000); drug overdoses (24,000); drunk driving (25,000); or AIDS (19,161). Looking at other environmental problems by comparison, asbestos is responsible for 189 deaths, lead accounts for seven deaths, and no human deaths have ever been cited for PBCs or dioxins. Yet all of the items mentioned above are of importance to Americans.

Radon kills three out of every 100 people with long term exposure at the action level of 4 pCi/L. They will die of lung cancer. And smokers? The risk of lung cancer for cigarette smoking is well documented. If you smoke and have an exposure to Radon, then the resulting risk of lung cancer is not added, but multiplied. To give an idea of how this relates to the way other risks are viewed, Orange Dye #19 is banned for use in lipstick. It has only a one in 19,000,000,000 chance of causing cancer.

So why isn't there some big social agenda to rid the world of radon risk? Probably because there is no money in it. There is no "Radon industry," no Radon lobbyists, and no profits to be made on a grand scale.

We can't get rid of Radon by banning it, because it occurs naturally. We can't ask the EPA to take care of it. We can't ask the DEP to control it. The only way that you can protect yourself from Radon in the privacy of your own home is to test for it yourself. If you have it, get rid of it.

Fortunately, testing your home is very easy to do. The Board of Health in Wilmington has test kits available for Wilmington residents.

The kits are a part of an overall project to detect and locate Radon throughout the town, which is now part of a larger project to locate Radon throughout the state.

Each kit costs $16.00 and contains two 48 hour test canisters. You can take the kit home, then following the directions provided, place the canisters in the living areas of the house where you spend the most time.

The kit is then mailed (mailer and postage is provided in the kit) to the testing laboratory and you will receive the results within a few days.

Results between 0.0 and 3.9 pCi/L are acceptable. 4.0 pCi/L and above are considered to be unacceptable, some remedial action should be taken. When a test result is at the action level, there are suggestions included with the report as to the proper remedial actions to take. If the level is 20 pCi/L or more, an additional free test is supplied for a retest. 20 pCi/L is the level at which a uranium mine is no longer allowed to function.

Believe it or not, in our survey of homes we have found readings of 100 pCi/L and higher. There is no way of predicting which homes will have the gas. One home can have a high test, and the house next door can have none. The only way that you will know for certain is to test your own home. If you have a high level, you will receive remedial action information with the test results.

Fortunately again, remedial action is usually simple and inexpensive. You have probably heard some horror stories about expensive contracting and major alterations. There was an initial attempt by some contractors to capitalize on the Radon issue with scare tactics. Now that the tests and the relevant information go directly into the hands of the homeowner, it is easy to get the proper work done. Most of the time, remember work is simple enough to do on your own.

In 1987, this Director and Dr. Lee Grodzins, a professor at MIT who first helped the EPA develop the protocol for the liquid scintillation method of Radon analysis, sat down together and put together the Wilmington Radon Program. It was the first of its kind in the country. Six neighboring towns joined in the venture. Soon after, the information was shared with other interested towns at the annual conference of The American Public Health Association and through training seminars for Health Officers. At this time, Massachusetts is the only state that has local Radon programs of this kind across the state.

Private testing of Radon usually costs at least double that which is now available at the Board of Health. So do yourself and your family a favor. Test your home for Radon.

frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

Following two years of tumultuous politics and a pile of lawsuits which will feed the bank accounts of a dozen lawyers, Tewksbury prepares for another election season this week with two incumbent selectmen poised for another run, a former police officer kicking off a late-in-life political career, and one board member's spouse following the footsteps of her controversial husband.

Pete Hanson is taking his candidacy for selectman seriously enough to have opened a campaign headquarters, a step above the norm in local campaigns which has been a candidate's living room or kitchen table. The retired police veteran's campaign shop is at the Bradford Building where the slogan might be "We Can Really Do This." Does anything go on there, Pete? "I haven't really made it active, it's a little early and we just want to get things set up for future meetings," said Hanson, who in his typically relaxed and low-key style exudes sincerity and confidence. "I'm gonna win this," pronounces Hanson, as if perfectly positioned to become one of five town fathers.

Hanson's Best Bet - The Jay Kelley Trash Fee

Hanson's fledgling campaign is promoting opposition to the controversial trash fee, imposed by selectmen following the defeat of a Proposition 2 1/2 override ballot question. Hanson's timing couldn't be better, just as trash bills hit the streets this week, to the chagrin of an angry electorate. As he's focusing his efforts on Kelley, Hanson might kick-off his advertising by bestowing the newest bill on your kitchen table with its proper name - the Jay Kelley Trash Fee. As chairman of the board, Kelley was the leading proponent of the fee as a means to raise taxes.

Adding insult to injury, the bills threaten property liens against homeowners who fail to pay, and compel, by means of the same threat, proof of alternate means of trash disposal be provided to town officials.

Hanson goes to bat against two incumbents, Charles Coppola, the first announced candidate, and Jay Kelley, who said on Monday he's "definitely running".

Charlie Coppola - A Vulnerability Gone

Coppola was thought vulnerable after the defeat of his principal supporter on the board of selectmen, Lou Carciofi. Despite a defiant "beat the odds" campaign in 1991, Carciofi was ousted from office as voters purged Town Hall of its "development interests." In the aftermath, some pundits viewed Coppola as the next victim-in-waiting.

But increasingly, voters have cast Coppola in a far different light than his less fortunate municipal compatriots. "We've known Charlie for 18 years and have always found him very civic minded, keeping the best interests of the town's people at heart", said Chris Sprague of Redgate Road. "He really seems to be the independent voice on the board of selectmen, whose only allegiance is to working men and women in Tewksbury".

The Middle-Class Selectman

Coppola has been spared the label of mouthpiece for development, and instead, appears as he is. A civil servant in Boston, Coppola's only property is his family's modest, split entry house on a one acre lot. And yes, "All the permits are in order." Coppola's platform and even his campaign finance reports speaks of a middle-class favorite son with a strong grass-roots foundation. "I believe in the guy, he's totally honest and totally sincere," said Richard Sheehan, a retired Tewksbury firefighter.

Kelley's Achilles Heel - Tom Camara

Pete Hanson may be focusing his sights on the chairman himself, who has a striking Achilles heel in the person of Select man Tom Camara. A marriage, not made in political Heaven, Kelley and Camara are the Bush - Quayle of Tewksbury. First thought to be a good bet in the harvest of local anti-incumbency, Camara quickly showed his offensive colors to the embarrassment of supporters and the rage of local media. "I think Kelley's support of Camara has hurt Kelley," said Dick Morris.

Many Consider Coppola . . . "Strongest"

One of Tewksbury best-known citizens, Morris referenced Kelley's handling of the board of appeals affair as another liability for the selectman. "It came across as a vendetta, almost," said Morris. The unprecedented firing of appeals board members would later trigger a class-action lawsuit, still in litigation. Morris said there was "a better way to handle" the highly publicized affair and that in the final analysis many in town credit Coppola for having managed it "more professionally". As a result, Morris said many identify Coppola as the "strongest" of the two incumbents.

Kelley Still the Man to Beat

So does Hanson simply walk in, a step behind Coppola with Kelley a distant third? Marie Sweeney thinks not, and points to the changing school committee race as one of the unlikely reasons. The chairman of Tewksbury's Democratic Town Committee said two vacant school board seats will make voters reluctant to cast out the only experience remaining on the ballot. "With the loss of experience on the school committee, people will vote more cautiously in the other race, which is for selectman," said Sweeney.

And lest we forget, there is another candidate in the race. But despite the surrounding fanfare Sweeney discounts the wife of Selectman Tom Camara and considers her a virtual non-candidate. "Voters won't even look at Jeanne Camara; she's not a serious contender".

All in the family

MISTER DONUT on Rt 38, Tewksbury is truly "All in the family." The Wilson family recently purchased this donut franchise. This is one family that really knows the donut and bakery business. Bill, Sr. has over 25 years experience and has owned a Dunkin Donut franchise plus several independent shops. His wife, Elaine works the counter, helps with the baking and keeps the books in order. Son, Bill, Jr. works all night to get the showcases full for the 5 a.m. opening. Although only 24 he has 12 years experience, and by the looks and taste of his donuts and muffins, he really knows what he's doing.

Daughter, Donna a Tewksbury resident, works the counter, makes the muffins and cookies and her homemade soups are the best!

Bill, Sr. knows that everyone is having a hard time in this economy, so he has lowered the prices. He says saving 25¢ on every cup of coffee you drink can really add up, and donuts are over $1.00 cheaper than anywhere else. The donuts and muffins are delicious and fresh. The bagels are huge and tender. I could go on, but why not stop in and see for yourself.

MISTER DONUT, Rt 38, Tewksbury, with additional parking and entrance in the rear, plus a newly installed drive-thru window.

Capt. Larz banned gum

by Capt. Larz Neilson
A recent short story in the Wall Street Journal has told how chewing gum will be allowed no longer in the nation of Singapore. That city-state at the southern most tip of Asia has found out that gum is a "perennial nuisance" because in public facilities such as subway cars wads of used gum have jammed doors and stalled trains.

Back in the days of World War II the writer banned the use of chewing gum on ships he commanded. The wads of gum, which could be very easily tossed overboard were, instead dropped on the deck, by crew members. Then they had to be scrapped off, because they were a nuisance.

All purchase orders for the ship had to pass through the captain's office. It was easy to draw a line through the words "chewing gum." Then, when the purser would report to the captain that the ship had not received any chewing gum the captain would have a simple answer to the problem.

"Haven't you heard, there's a war on?"

25 years ago

The January 5, 1967 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

George Boylen of Ledgewood Road announced his candidacy for the Board of Selectmen in the March elections.

The School Committee budget was up to $248,000.

Good news was offered to horse and pony lovers for the new year - a 4-H Horse Club was in the process of being formed at the Fielding Farm on Hopkins Street.

Ling Electronics announced its arrival on Industrial Way.

Nosey Nancy congratulated Allick and Jean (Epstein) on their really original restaurant Allick's Drive-Thru - a wonderful addition to Wilmington where one could drive up to the order window wearing, if one wished "pajamas and a robe," drive to the next window and pick it up - "hot and delicious." Located where was once the new Ford showroom, the establishment was the first of its type in the area. It later became Ricky's Dog House.

Rocco's Restaurant "put on a new face" and at new sign (the old one was too small) the new entrance and inside renovations were still going on. Everything (just about) had changed except the food - even the prices promised to remain the same. "We wouldn't think of having patrons pay for all the improvements."

The Board of Water Commissioners advertised a public hearing to consider the installation of water mains under the betterment act on Lawrence Street, Taft Road and Silver Lake Street (also known as Martens Street).

Elia's market advertised bananas at 10 cents a pound; milk, 45 cents per half gallon and boys or girls skates (Hyde) $6.95 a pair.

On Tuesday, January 14, at 6:30 p.m., the second in the education based series, "In Pursuit of Excellence," will be aired "live" on WCTV, Channel 52. Viewers are invited to call in questions or comments during the program at 657-4066.

The guests for this program are members of the Wilmington Curriculum Committee who will answer questions and discuss the group's history, purpose, and goals.

The Curriculum Committee was established by Superintendent

William Fay in 1989. The Committee is made up of principals, teachers, department heads, and parent representatives. Their major goal was to look at the Wilmington School System's curriculum in all areas and see what was being done, what needed to be changed, and the best method to achieve that goal.

On January 16, the public is invited to watch, and if they wish call in to WCTV at 657-4066 and join in the discussion with the Wilmington Curriculum Committee.

Watercolor demo at Arts Center

The Wilmington Council for the Arts will hold a watercolor demonstration at the Arts Center (old Town Hall) Wednesday, January 15, 1992 at 7:30 p.m.

Louise Anderson, a North Reading artist, will share some of her techniques as she demonstrates the art of watercoloring. She is a graduate of the Art Institute of Boston and has attended workshops in Conn., Mass. and Vt. She has had several one woman exhibitions in the New Haven, Conn. area, where she lived for 20 years before returning to Mass. Her work has also been shown in many exhibitions where she has received many awards.

Mrs. Anderson prefers to paint her landscapes on location - her favorite spots being New England, especially Cape Cod and Cape Ann, England, and Scotland. Flowers, fruits and other materials from nature are subjects of her still life paintings.

Membership is held in Lynnfield and Andover Art Associations and she is currently teaching in North Reading and Wilmington. Her advanced students at the Wilmington Arts Center are very enthusiastic about her class and look forward every week to her new and varied assignments.

Everyone is welcome to attend this program which has been partially funded through a grant from the Mass. Cultural Council and is offered without charge.

Tech open house Jan. 22

An opportunity to explore vocational and technical careers will be the focus of the Wed., Jan. 22 Open House for eighth graders and their parents at Shawsheen Tech beginning at 6:50 p.m. Snow date is Thursday, Jan. 23.

Invitations and reply cards were sent to the homes of Shawsheen District eighth graders last week. The card lists all 19 vocational and technical laboratories the school offers: students choose four to explore. The school will set up a schedule for each student from the returned cards, including a question and answer period in the media center with teachers and counselors.

Teachers and counselors will be available to discuss Shawsheen's "Tech Prep" program, the result of agreements with Northern Essex Community College in Haverhill and Middlesex Community College in Bedford.

Designed for eighth graders and their parents, the Jan. 22 Open House begins with a brief introduction in the cafeteria with a welcome by Charles Lyons, superintendent/director. Students and parents are urged to arrive early to pick up schedules.

In each of the vocational or technical education programs, students will be on hand to demonstrate and explain the skills learned and products or services offered, as well as potential careers. The program concludes with a "free" period during which visitors are encouraged to visit any program or area of interest.

Family issues discussed in group forum

If you grew up in a family in which you suffered abuse, neglect, emotional or physical abandonment; in which your parents were absorbed in alcohol or some other addiction; in which as kids you were responsible for parenting your parents; or in which secrets kept real communication from occurring, chances are that your life is still affected by these experiences. Issues that typically remain unresolved are shame, trust, control, anger, intimacy, and relationship problems. Different roles are learned in childhood that often are carried inappropriately into adult life.

These and similar issues will be explored in a group session being offered by the Wilmington Family Counseling Service, entitled "Growing up in a Dysfunctional Family."

Especially after the holiday season, which sometimes rekindles family frustrations and disappointments, these issues may be more evident to you. You may not be sure how your inner child's spirit may have been stilled by earlier childhood experiences. This group will provide a forum for you to discover your inner child and provide experiences to promote healing of these long buried issues. Through a combination of handouts, tapes, group exercises, and sharing of life experiences, the group will help clarify the past and its continuing effect on present day living.

The group will be led by Karl Peters, LICSW, whose specialty is adult children of alcoholics and substance abuse and who himself grew up with an alcoholic parent.

Group meetings will be Monday evenings from 7 to 8:30, beginning January 27 for 10 weeks. As a non-profit agency, fees are negotiated on an individual basis depending upon insurance, community, and income. Anyone interested in joining should call Dr. Carol Golub at the Wilmington Family Counseling Service, at 658-9889 to register by Thurs., January 23.

Video production course open

Wilmington Community Television is offering a new set of Video Production Training Courses to all Wilmington residents who would like to learn how to produce local programming for the access channels. The Thursday evening course starts January 23rd and runs for seven consecutive Thursdays, evenings from 6:30 to 8 p.m. The fee is $30 per person with special rates for students and senior citizens.

WCTV is also offering a Saturday course which starts immediately and runs for seven weeks as well. The course is held on Saturday mornings from 9 to 11 a.m.

For more information and registration, please call WCTV at 657-4066.

PROTECTED?

BURGLARS ARE HUMAN

QUESTION: "I understand most burglars are 'amateurs.' Is this true?"

ANSWER: You are right. Only one percent of burglaries are committed by professionals. Most offenders are youngsters under the age of 21. They're scared, will take the easy way out and won't battle obstacles. Burglars don't like dogs and will go elsewhere if there's a barker at home. Also effective are good window locks and burglar-proof door latches. There are inexpensive alarms that will make enough noise to scare away all of the amateurs. Burglars are human. You can outwit 99% of them—if you try.

MOST BURGLARS are amateurs. Even a little protection will go a long way.

Wilmington senior topics

Whist January 13

The first whist of January will be held in the function room of the senior center, 15 School St., Monday, Jan. 13 beginning at 1 p.m. All of our programs have resumed following the holidays.

Exercise class

The exercise class is open to both men and women. It is instructed by a physical therapist. All her exercises are oriented to the older persons, not strenuous, but very effective. The classes are held Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 10 to 11. Exercise of this type is excellent to keep the mind and body healthy. It is good for those recuperating from a stroke, cancer, arthritis and diabetes. You can join the class any one of these days. It is for Wilmington residents 60 years and older.

Craft class

The craft class has started for 1992. This is an excellent class. The instructor and her helpers are always taking in new projects for the class to learn. Last year they worked on a large number with most of them mastering how to make the article in a very short time. Those interested in learning new crafts are urged to join the class. By the end of the year they will be amazed with what they have learned. The class meets Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

Dance lessons

Those who have always wanted to learn to dance, the class is back on the floor Thursdays from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Learn to dance and have a wonderful time under the instruction of Marguerite.

Bingo

Bingo games are offered Fridays from 1 to 2:30 p.m. A lighted bingo board will flash numbers for those with impaired eyesight or hearing.

All of these programs are free to any resident of Wilmington 60 years or older.

Lunch program

The lunch program has resumed under the nutritionist at the high school. Delivered meals will be from the North School and the eating together meal will be served at the high school. At the school, participants will be able to select the type of meal. Both the delivered and school lunch will cost $1.00. Both meals have to be ordered through the center, 657-7595.

Give it a shot

Those who have never visited the senior center, feeling they would not know anyone are urged to drop by anyway. The purpose of the center is for elders to have a chance to socialize and take part in programs available free of charge. Those interested in socializing or companionship; coffee and donuts are served all day. It won't be long before newcomers have made friends.

Social Security

Those thinking of signing up for Social Security some time in 1992, should get in touch with the Social Security office now. Some may be due benefits for months they are still working, but to get those benefits you must file your application early. It may be to your advantage even if you don't plan to retire until later in the year.

Call the Social Security office for more information on this, 1-800-772-1213. Remember if you are 65 when you apply for Social Security you will also apply for Medicare. Remember to take part A&B. You will need both. Medicare will pay 80 percent of the accepted cost of medical treatment. Therefore when you apply for Medicare also apply for a supplemental policy with an insurance company to cover the remaining part of the bill (or the 20 percent left).

Seniors who think they do not need a supplement might find after a hospital stay when Medicare pays the 80 percent the remaining part that can be in the thousands can be devastating. That part you will have to pay. All you need is Medicare and one supplement policy to cover your medical cost. If you take several supplement policies you will be throwing money away. Most insurance companies are having open enrollment during the months of January and February. Blue Cross does but call your insurance company, they vary.

Rotary Scholarship

Rieko Tanaka, who has a Rotary scholarship to the New England Conservatory of Music was a guest of the Rotary Club of Wilmington during the Christmas period. She has been three years in the United States, but this is her first year as a Rotary Scholar.

Her Japanese piano teacher, she told the club, studied music in Boston, the best place in the U.S. to study music. She finds school-life much better here. Rieko lives in a place which is on the slopes of Fujiyama.

Belmore, board at odds over house

by Arlene Surprenant

Members of the Wilmington Housing Authority were at odds with their Executive Director Ella Belmore Tuesday over the next step to take to build an affordable home on Houghton Road. Town meeting voters in December approved an article allowing the WHA to pursue the home on the town site.

Belmore said she had a problem with the town meeting vote. She maintained the article should have spelled out the name of the Wilmington Community Development Corporation, the non-profit group the board hopes will undertake the project. Belmore also told her board it would be hard to build a home for the $68,500 allotted for the project.

Acting Chairman Dan Gillis said the board could let the WDC build the home and sell it to the authority as was done with the affordable home on Everett Avenue. This, he said, would avoid any problems with having the town involved with bidding on the project. A new state law called Chapter 30B requires that there be competitive bidding on town property.

Belmore replied because of the town meeting vote the board couldn't pursue that option. Gillis pointed out both town counsel and town officials felt the vote was proper.

Al Meegan suggested the WHA try to use students from Shawsheen Tech to build the home under the auspices of the non-profit group in order to come in within the allotted budget. Belmore explained the board would have to apply to the vocational school for its next lottery. Gillis offered to contact John Gillis of the Tech School Committee to see if the town could apply for another home.

Wilmington police news

During the week ending January 6, Wilmington police officers responded to 26 alarms, three assaults, assisted other departments on four occasions, made eight arrests and one protective custody detention.

Fourteen bank escorts were completed, seven burglaries were investigated along with three reports of disorderly conduct. Four domestic problems were quieted, four larcenies were checked out, a person was reported missing and medical assistance was given once.

Seven public services were performed, three threat complaints were logged, five traffic accidents were investigated, six traffic services were performed, alert neighbors reported seven incidents of suspicious activity and 12 incidents of vandalism are still under investigation.

Arrests

Early Saturday morning two people were arrested-after officers investigated complaints of domestic assault. Paula Corbett and John Corbett of Bigger Avenue were both charged with assault and battery by means of a dangerous weapon on each other. Both were taken to Winchester Hospital for treatment, released and bailed for Monday at Woburn Court. Investigating were Sgt. Neville, and officers Richter, Bruce and Mauriello.

Later on Saturday morning Officer Charlie Fiore arrested Steven J. Johnson of Salem after a traffic stop on Shawsheen Avenue. Johnson was held on a court default and later bailed for Woburn Court Monday morning.

Two local youths were arrested at 12:30 a.m. Sunday by officers Hubby and Jepson after complaints from neighbors. Steven Luce of Parker Street and Christopher Gray of Dewey Avenue. Both were charged with disturbing the peace. Gray was additionally charged with malicious damage to town property, a telephone.

Early Monday Officer Paul Jepson arrested a Lowell man after a computer check revealed a warrant issued by Plymouth officers. Jason Stecchi was bailed for an appearance in Plymouth Court.

Later on Monday, Officer Joe Harris arrested Marc E. Rowe of Jaquith Road after a stop on Woburn Street. Rowe was charged with operating after his drivers license had been revoked. He was taken directly to Woburn Court for arraignment.

Free throw contest Jan. 18

Fr. Croke Council, K of C, and the Wilmington Recreation Dept. will sponsor their annual free throw contest at the WHS gym on Saturday, January 18. The contest will begin at 1 p.m.

Competition is for boys and girls in the 10, 11, 12, 13, 14 age groups only. Age determination is as of January 1, 1992. No prior registration is necessary.

Trophies will be awarded to the winners in each category along with the opportunity to advance to district, regional and state shootouts.

All boys and girls in these age groups are welcome to join in the fun.

Shawsheen basketball

Tech boys start fast

The 1991-92 edition of Shawsheen Tech boys' varsity basketball is off to a fast start, as the Rams have jumped out to a 3-1 record. The Rams have recorded victories over Lynn Tech (68-43), Lowell Catholic (55-30) and St. Joseph's of Lowell (63-47).

This year's Rams are headed by Tewksbury residents Joe Goglia, Kevin Green, Mike Daykin and Ed Walsh along with Wilmington resident Brian Elliott.

The junior varsity Rams also have a strong local flavor, with Wilmington residents Tony Almeida, Mike Barletta and Dan King, while Rob Guptill, Steve Hutchenson and Joe Burke are from Tewksbury.

The Rams are looking forward to their third straight trip to postseason tournament play.

The Shawsheen varsity is coached by Wilmington resident Paul Lyman, while the junior varsity is coached by former Wilmington great Ed Gillis.

Lombard earns MVP honors

Dartmouth College senior Mike Lombard of Wilmington recently earned tournament MVP honors while leading Dartmouth to the championship of the Landmark Bank Dartmouth Classic December 13-14.

The former Wilmington High School standout scored 29 points and added 15 rebounds in two games for the Big Green, now 2-2 on the year.

In Dartmouth's opening round match with Central Connecticut, Lombard poured in a team high 16 points and collected eight boards.

Against Campbell University in the championship game, Lombard scored 13 points and added four assists as Dartmouth cruised to a 90-74 victory.

Lombard is the captain of the 1991-92 Big Green.

Lombard later earned All-Tournament honors at the Pepsi-Marist Classic, held December 29 and 30 two weeks after he was named MVP of the Landmark Bank Dartmouth Invitational.

At Marist, Lombard poured in 26 points in two nights for the Big Green, which defeated host Marist in the consolation game, 50-48, after falling to Niagara, 72-55 in the first round.

Against Marist, Lombard converted two key three point plays in the final five minutes.

The former standout at Wilmington High School had 29 points in two games to lead Dartmouth to the title in its tournament.

At Wilmington, Lombard helped his team to the school's first Merrimack Valley Conference title in 30 years. He was also named to the Boston Herald's All-Scholastic team. Mike is the son of Michael and Harriet Lombard of Wilmington.

Softball pitching clinic

Wilmington High School varsity softball coach Paul Lyman has announced the second annual Wildcat Pitching Clinic to be held at Wilmington High School's Cushing Memorial Gymnasium beginning January 19 and running every Sunday evening until March 1. Further information may be obtained by calling 658-8842.

NFL picks Mike Stuart

Road teams ready to fall

Every so often, you hear players and coaches say, "home field advantage doesn't matter that much." The past weekend laid to rest that theory.

All four home teams and their fans continually feed off each other in times of need, and in each case, came out victorious. This week, the Lions and Broncos will be without their fans, and after last week's lessons, both road teams will be at a loss for support. Let's take a look.

Buffalo 30 Denver 19

There are two factors overlooking the obvious fact that Buffalo is simply the better team.

One, Elway has never lost an AFC championship game, and, two, history tells us that Denver plays tough in Rich Stadium. But honestly, history has a way of being changed when the talents of both teams matched man for man result in Buffalo being the clear winner.

The first three periods will produce an exciting game, but the Bills lead going into the fourth quarter will exceed the heroics expected of John Elway.

Washington 34 Detroit 21

Last week I wrote about the Falcons catching the public's eye. That was before witnessing the late Sunday game.

It's really the Lions who your everyday fan will be rooting for this Sunday. How can you blame them?

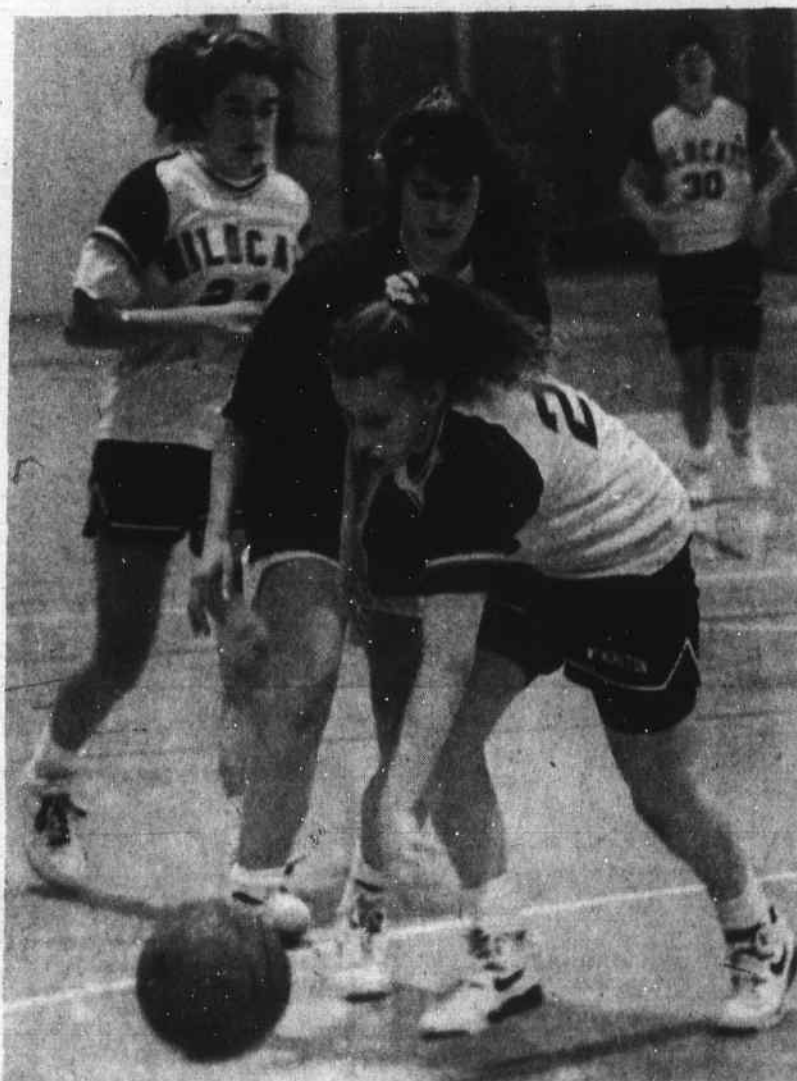

With the inspiration from Mike Utley, and the going away present their fans gave them, well, you get the picture. Eric Kramer has shown exceptional poise, however. Now he is at RFK, which undeniably, is the stiffest test he could expect. Sure it would be great for Americans and football to see the Lions in the Super Bowl, but I would bet the house against it.

Last week outright: 3-1; playoffs 6-2. Vs. spread: 2-2; playoffs: 4-4.

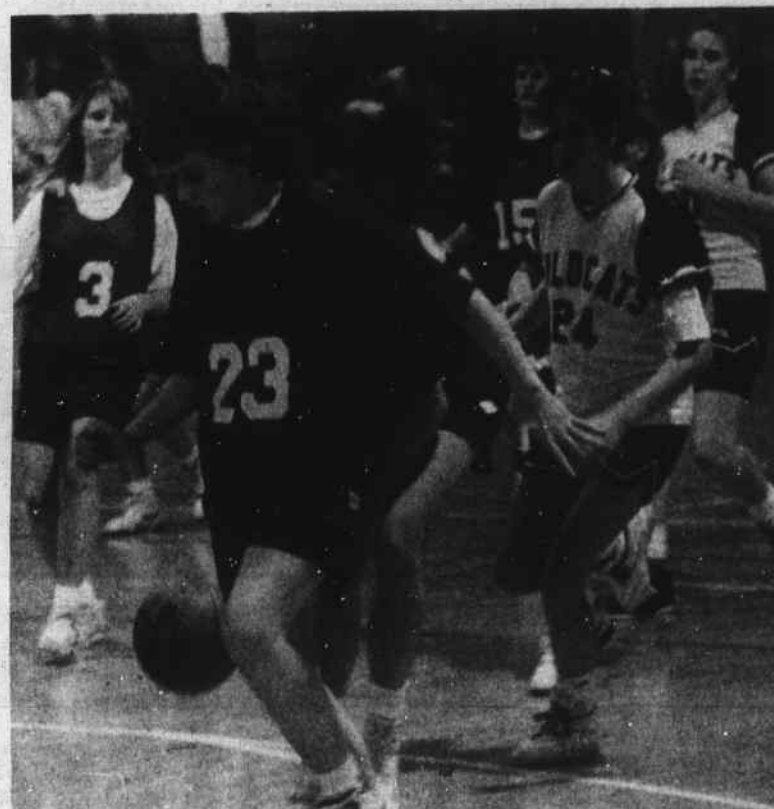

Awaiting the result

Wilmington freshman girls' basketball player Erin Beal (10) stretches for this rebound while awaiting the results of the referee's whistle. Moving to help out of the play is teammate Mary Armata (30). Action took place in a game against the Lowell frosh at the Cushing Gymnasium.

WHS burst

WHS frosh guard Kellie O'Donnell (25) dribbles past this Lowell High School defender in second half action Tuesday afternoon.

Applies heat

Wilmington's Jamie Paquin (24) applies some much needed defensive pressure for her team.

Entertainment

Greater Boston

The Wilmington Recreation Department is offering another way to save money and make your Christmas shopping a little easier.

Entertainment '92 and Greater Boston '92 are two great ways to save money when dining out, attending theatre and sports events. You can even save money on dry cleaning.

Stop by to look at these books of money saving coupons Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Recreation Office at town hall or call 658-4270 for more information.

Play gym

The Wilmington Recreation Department is again offering this popular program for children ages four through grade two called Play Gym.

The program will include tumbling, games, creative movement, songs and exploration of physical education equipment.

Cost is $25. Register in the Rec. Office between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday or call 658-4270 for more information.

Karate and kindergart

Registration is being held in the Recreation Office for two popular programs for children ages three through adult.

Kinderkarate introduces boys and girls age four to grade one to karate. Karate is our program for everyone from grade two through adult. This program helps develop coordination, character, integrity, self-discipline and respect for others.

Both classes meet on Saturday beginning January 18 and meet for six weeks. Cost is $25 for each program. Register in the Recreation Office in town hall from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Discounts

Discounts are available for many Florida attractions, including Magic Kingdom, SeaWorld, Church Street Station, Wet n' Wild and Universal Studios. Stop by the Recreation Office Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. to pick up these discounts.

Movie discounts

The Wilmington Recreation Department has discount tickets for the Showcase Cinemas, good in Woburn, Lawrence and Revere. These tickets are good Monday through Thursday only. Also available are tickets to the General Cinema in Burlington. Call the Rec Office at 658-4270 for details or stop by the Rec Office at Town Hall.

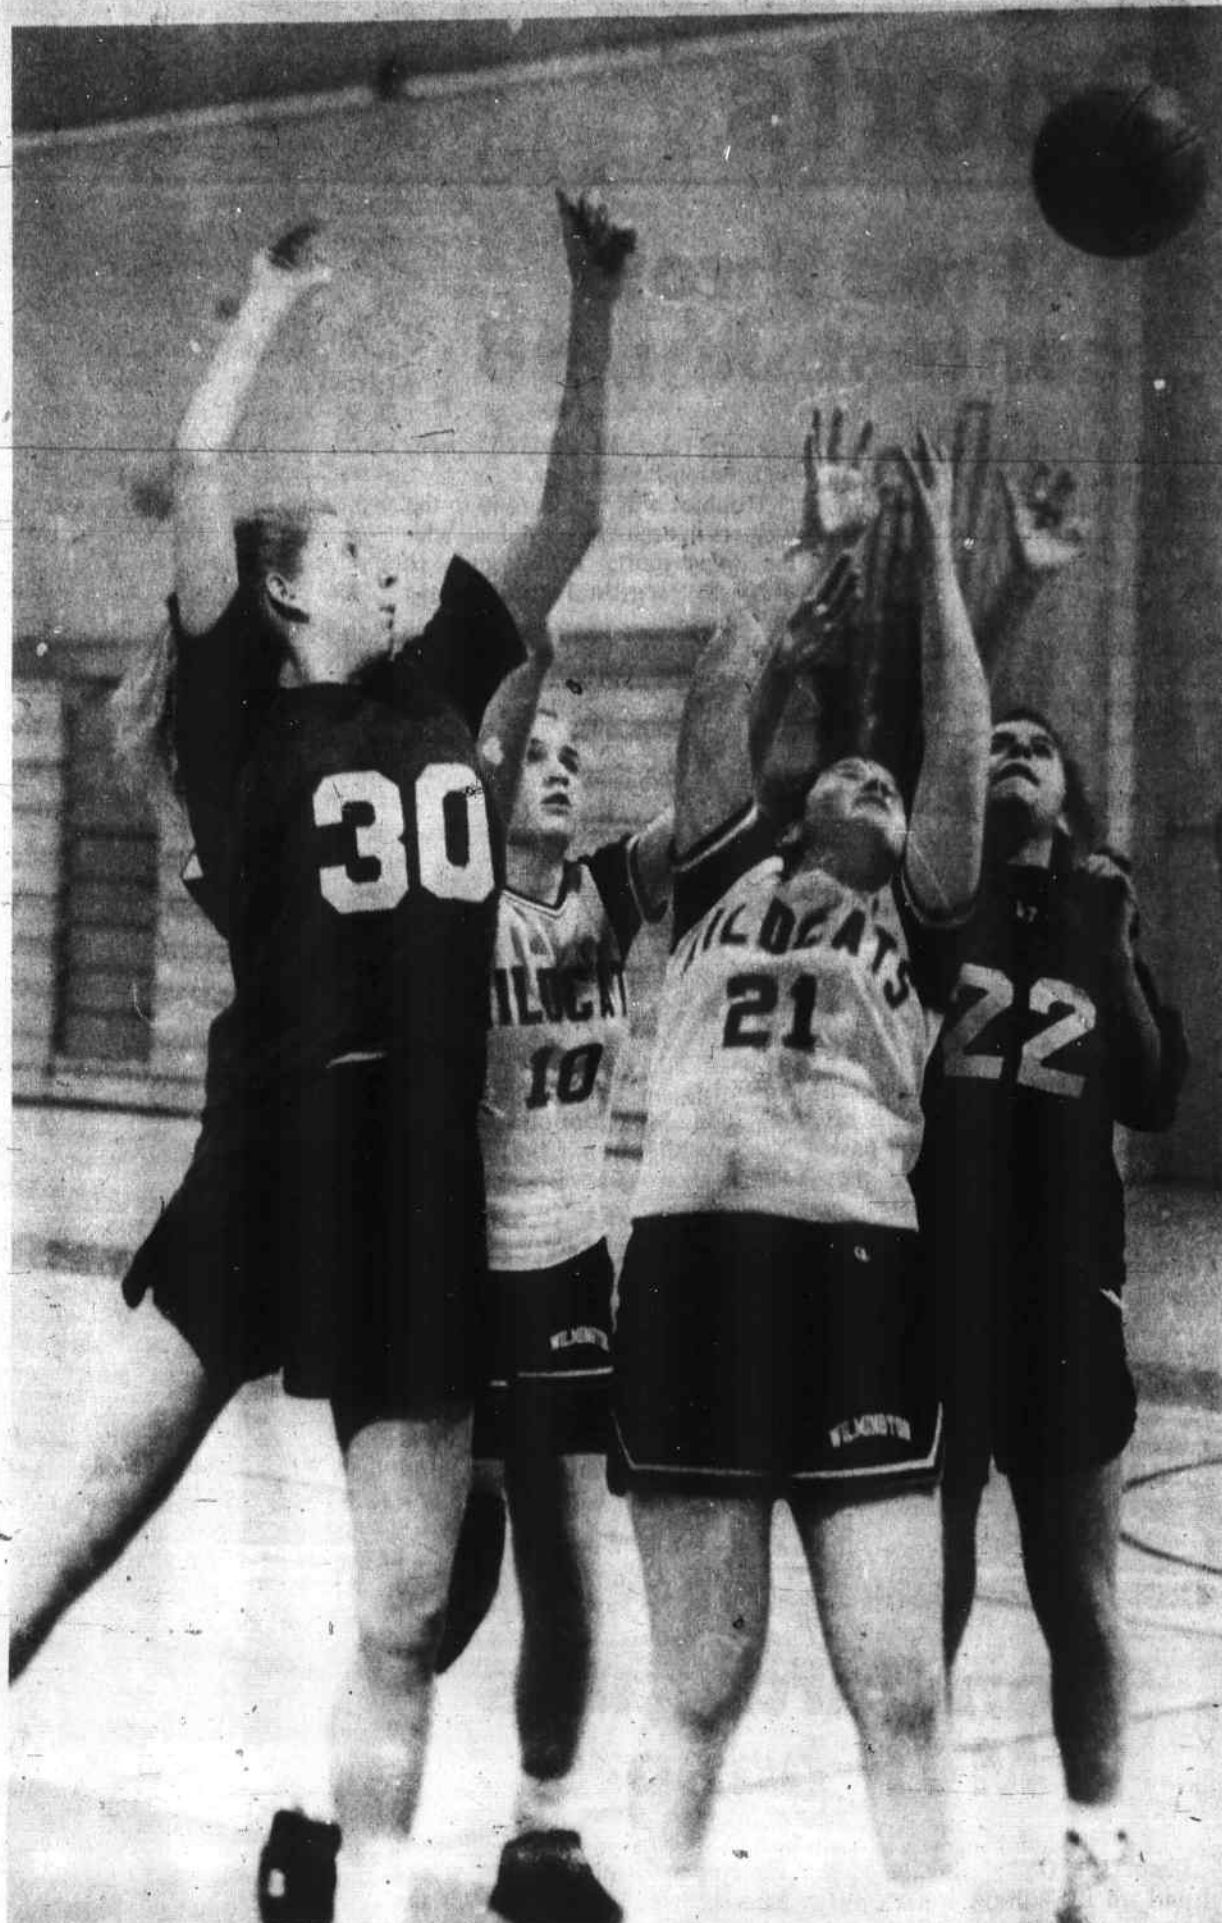

Co-ed volleyball

The popular co-ed volleyball will begin Thursday evening, January 9 from 7 to 9 at the North Intermediate Gym. This program will run through March 26. Cost is $35 for the 12 week program or pay $4 at the door. It's informal and a lot of fun.

Ballroom dance

The Recreation Department is offering a ballroom dance class to welcome in the new year. Dances will include slow and fast as well as popular ballroom rhythms such as the waltz, fox trot, jitterbug and others. This basic course will also teach line dances such as the popular electric slide and others like the hully gully and hustle.

The program will run from 7 to 8:30 p.m. either Tuesday or Friday for eight weeks beginning in late January. Call 658-4270 if interested.

Loose ball battle

Liberating the prisoners of winter

by Bill Conlon
Oh, alright. So maybe you're not the type for ice fishing. Too bad.

(I'll still be writing for the die-hard ice-beards, but you've got to admit that we're only a fraction of the population. A small and unique fraction, true, but there are people reading this who never go fishing at all. Really!! This one's for them.)

So ice fishing is out. What else is there to do when the mercury is a red line at the bottom of the glass tube? Plenty!

Winter shouldn't be a five-month prison sentence, as it is for many. Those who can afford to fly south around November, to winter nests in Florida. The unwashed (dat's us) remain in New England to endure the frozen months.

And many of those who remain here all winter live like prisoners. They stare glumly out the window and dream of summer's return, all the while wishing the family car had a remote starter, to warm it up before the twice-daily dash through the bitter air. Except for driving to work or the food store, they never set foot outdoors.

That's a pity. New England has four distinct seasons, and each has charms of its own. Winter is just another season, and isn't any worse than fall or midsummer.

The most important part of any winter enjoyment is clothing. With the right clothes, winter is a snap. With the wrong clothes, however, there is nothing longer than a day in an Arctic playground.

Long underwear is a given. Tops and bottoms, or the legendary one-piece Union suit. (I wear long-john bottoms all season, faithfully, from mid-November to March.)

Next comes footwear. The best cold-weather boots are Sorrels, the types with rubber bottoms, leather uppers and removable felt inserts. If you can't afford the actual brand-name there are plenty of terrific imitations around. If your feet are miserably cold, you'll be miserable all day -- period.

A hat is also required, since your head loses monstrous amounts of body heat without one. Gloves or mittens are also very helpful in the maintenance of body heat.

After that, you need only worry about layering your clothes, since each added layer means more air to be trapped and warmed. T-shirt, a flannel shirt, a sweater and a coat and you're ready for anything.

We'll assume you put pants over your long-johns. Ahem.

With your clothing requirements met, you're ready to enjoy winter.

I'm not a skier, due to screaming knees, but there are millions of 'em out there. Ask around or visit any ski resort and inquire at the lodge about lessons. Skiing is a lifetime love affair and it's not uncommon for some folks to use up a week's vacation in winter just to go skiing at the country's top resorts. Skiing is big, big business.

Included in skiing is the hot new sport of snowboarding, which is much like surfing only the waves don't move. Give it a thought.

Cross-country skiing is entirely different from down-hill skiing. A golf course or state forest is ideal for a day of X-C skiing, in which the exercise is more like jogging than sliding down a mountain. The "Nordic Track" exercise machines simulate the workout you get from cross-country skiing, but you don't get to enjoy gorgeous scenery and fresh air in your living room.

If skiing of any sort is just too trendy, too stylish for you, give a nod to the old-fashioned method of crossing the tundra -- snowshoes. A good book on the topic is the best place to start, since you won't find many snowshoeing instructors. All of the good-looking ones are skiers anyway.

A toboggan is something the kids might like, but you can seek thrills barreling down the hill, too!

Snowmobiling, on a pond or on a snow-covered landscape, is terrific fun, but the sport is regulated more every year. Massachusetts requires helmets for all "sled" jockeys, and the vehicle must be registered with the state as well. Pain in the rump, really. Nothing like do-gooders to screw up a fun time, is there? Still, a powersled can mean hours of fun, from a winter safari to hauling gear for ice fishing.

If there isn't much snow on the ground, you'll need nothing more than a set of boots for covering the terrain. A simple walk in the state forest is good exercise, and cheap! If you live for competition, look at Orienteering. It's competition for hikers.

The New England cold provides a freebie that many local kids would never ignore -- pond ice. Skating and hockey are favorite activities in winter, and an aerial view of a big pond will reveal a necklace of shovelled-off skating rinks near the shore. Some clever bunnies drag gas-powered pumps onto the ice at night, to draw pond water onto the rink, which freezes overnight to a Zamboni-quality skating arena.

The surface of most lakes (but not all) is public property, which can mean dozens or even hundreds of recreational acres appearing every winter, free. If somebody clears the snow away to make a skating rink, their claim to "ownership" of that rink is by custom only! They don't own the ice, but it's traditional to ask permission before skating on a rink that you didn't shovel. A little common sense and courtesy will go a long way.

Winter scenery is terrific, with skies of the richest blue of the year and the world so sparkly clean with new snow on the ground. It's a sight to behold, and it's not that cold, if you're active.

As for exercise, all of the sports listed above provide an incredibly vigorous workout, except perhaps snowmobiling. Winter is prime for exercise, if you get out into it.

So put on your snuggles, dress to beat the cold, then go have fun in the fresh air. And after a long day of huffing and puffing in the cold, don't be too surprised if the house seems stuffy and cramped.

Oh, and as you jaunt along past the pond, be sure and wave at the lunatic fishermen standing out in the howling wind. We'll wave back.

--- Tackle Box ---

If we have ice, we'll have derbies soon, with the first one set to roll on January 19. The ice has lost a lot of strength in this tropical heat, so let's pray the Jet Stream dips south where it belongs and brings winter back to New England.

The Greater Lowell Fly Fishers' two annual derbies will be held on January 26 (on Lake Mascuppig, at the Dracut ramp) and February 9 (on Crystal Lake, Chelmsford, in back of the Legion hall on Route 40). Entry fee is $10 for each day, with cash prizes for the top ten fish. Fishing is 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Merrimack Valley Bass Masters will hold three events, all on Lake Mascuppig, January 19, February 9 and 23. The Feb. 9 event will butt heads with the GLFF derby that day on Crystal Lake, so take your pick. Entry fee is also $10, with cash and a trophy for each of the top five fish (bass and pickerel) taken. Fish from 7:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., but the MVBMS guys stress no ice augers before 6 a.m. Nice touch!

Another derby is planned on the big lake in Dracut, but it's an odd one. Dan's Bait & Tackle on Lake Mascuppig and their neighbors at the Bellingrider Lounge will hold a public derby on February 16, with an entry fee of $10 and prizes. But this will be a long, long day, with fishing from 5 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wow.

The annual biggie, the Meredith (N.H.) Rotary Club - Pepsi derby, is set for February 1 and 2, with signups taken at the Club's trailer on the shore of Meredith Bay on Lake Winnepesaukee. Entry fee is $15 for two days of fishing, with all N.H. waters eligible, and there's a long list of door prizes given away to those who simply sign up. This is an annual ritual for many local ice anglers, so mark the calendar.

In the January edition of Boston magazine, famed outdoors author William G. Tappan penned a piece about ice fishing. He comments on the boredom, and falling through, and the joys of bob houses, but his last two lines gave me pause: "At the end of the day I slip off my boots and toast my toes by a wood stove. I sip something hot and I know why I go ice fishing: it feels so good when I stop." Bill, please! Not all of us!

Frosh zone

The Wildcats' zone defense of Lorilyn Fenton (14), Michelle Castronovo (23), Erin Beal (10) and Deb Barysky (21) tries to stop Lowell late in their freshmen game.

Eighth grade girls impress

The Wilmington eighth grade girls' traveling basketball team is picking up where their predecessors left off in River Valley play by winning all six games they have played.

The young ladies have scored impressive victories over Methuen (48-17), Peabody (55-26), Reading (57-27), Melrose (47-18), Dracut (38-24), and Winchester (37-21). The girls record to date is 6-2, with their only losses coming early in the year to Wakefield (42-40) and St. Monica's (37-33).

The eighth grade team has been led on defense by the fine play of Lisa Southmayd, Laurie Johnson, Julie Gillis, Shannon Lyman and Lisa Timoly.

The offensive punch has been supplied by Julie Stokes, Leanne Harris, Nicole Dussault, Debbie McFeeters and Nicole Ciaramaglia.

The girls play again at home Sunday, January 12 at Wilmington High School with the game beginning at 3:15.

Peer leaders
at Shawsheen

Among Shawsheen Tech's Peer Leaders 1991-92 are Chris Botte, Michelle Ciaramaglia, Brian Dellascio, Melissa Gilardi, Shawn Mahoney, Christine Stevens and Bob Young, all of Wilmington and Tewksbury residents Rose Oliveira and Joleen Sylvain.

The second annual Buddy Breakfast, sponsored by Peer Leadership, was held Friday, Nov. 8. Tickets were sold to ninth and 11th grades. This event is held to help the ninth grade students feel welcome at Shawsheen Tech. The students were entertained by Richard Miller, magician, as well as music and dancing. Last year's Peer Leadership President, Eric Borsini, now a freshman at UMass, Lowell, addressed the audience.

Saturday, Nov. 9, at Merrimack College, three Shawsheen Tech sophomores took part in a Community Leadership Workshop sponsored by the Mass. Youth Leadership Foundation. Sophomores representing 40-45 schools came together to listen to speakers and engage in leadership exercises designed to develop the leadership abilities within each participant. Shawsheen was represented by Lauren Carroll, Shawn Mahoney and April Sickler.

Saturday, Dec. 14, Peer Leadership visited Carleton-Willard Village, Bedford to sing Christmas Carols and spread Christmas cheer to residents.

Tewksbury's Ciaccio honored Grateful Chinese host WWII U.S. servicemen

by Meredith Lawrie
The recent 50th anniversary of the bombing of Pearl Harbor launching the United States into World War II has reminded Americans of the brave individuals involved in that war.

World War II veterans, however, haven't forgotten for a moment what they accomplished during the war, and apparently the allies of the U.S. haven't forgotten either.

In October, the Republic of China (ROC) in Taiwan invited 50 World War II veterans and their wives to the country to join in their celebration of the 80th anniversary of the ROC's separation from the Manchu Dynasty, a holiday the Chinese call, "Double Tenth." (conjunction of the date it falls on 10-10-11).

Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Ciaccio of Marie Street, Tewksbury.

Ciaccio, a 35 year resident of Tewksbury, enlisted in the Navy in 1942 and was assigned to the Scouts and Raiders, an outfit which went on to become the now famous Navy SEALs.

From the Scouts and Raiders, Ciaccio joined the Sino American Cooperative Organization (SACO), Units Roger One, where he served as a motor machinist mate, first class, in China from 1944-45.

Ciaccio's unit was involved in one of the most dangerous episodes of the war against Japan known as guerrilla warfare, in which the American soldiers helped educate the Chinese with their more advanced battle technology. SACO centered its activities from the northern areas of the Gobi Desert to Indo-China, where, under the jurisdiction of President Chiang Kaishek, they kept allies aware of the "weather conditions and" of the movement of Japanese ships. As the war went on, Ciaccio's unit became one of the most dangerous units stationed in China, killing the Japanese in battle and raiding Japanese outposts.

The most dramatic moment in World War II that Ciaccio experienced came the day after the war ended when his unit was forced to make an emergency landing on a Japanese airstrip.

"We had to convince the Japs the war was over — and quickly," Ciaccio said. "They approached us very cautiously with their weapons drawn."

Even though Ciaccio's unit played such an important role in helping the Chinese fight the Japanese, Ciaccio wasn't expecting the invitation his unit received from the ROC.

"I'm still not sure why they did it," he said. Besides showing the veterans their appreciation of the unit's war efforts in China, Ciaccio believes they also were "attempting to make closer ties to the U.S. government."

Chinese visit

Fifty years after the start of World War II, Sal and Marie Ciaccio were flown to Taiwan, where Lt. Gen. Yin Tsung-Wen (left) honored them at a dinner. The entire trip was paid for by the government of the Republic of China.

Upon arriving in Taipei, Taiwan, the Ciaccios were amazed at the hospitality they received.

"We were treated like celebrities," said Mrs. Ciaccio, adding that personal tour guides and interpreters were assigned to them, along with police escorts when they traveled by car.

"Every event we attended, we were seated in the VIP sections, along with high-ranking Chinese officials," Ciaccio said.

The Ciaccios were also showered with gifts including two gold wrist watches presented to them by Lt. General Yin Tsung-wen.

"Every festivity we went to, we received another gift," Mrs. Ciaccio said.

Mr. and Mrs. Ciaccio's visit consisted of an eight-day tour of the ROC and participation in the Double Tenth festivities from October 7-15.

They stayed at the Grand Hyatt Hotel, one of Taipei's most prestigious hotels. Their stay was paid for entirely by the ROC government.

The many events the Ciaccio's attended included a military rally at which the government's army and battle equipment were displayed, and a visit to the soldiers home, where the ROC's World War II veterans honored Ciaccio and the other members of his SACO unit.

They also attended "Window on China," what Ciaccio calls a "scaled version of the many tourist attractions in China, such as the Great Wall."

Mrs. Ciaccio feels the trip was a learning experience for her. "What my husband was involved in during the war became much clearer to me," she said.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ciaccio feel they learned a great deal about Chinese culture as a result of their trip.

"The Chinese are much different than we are in many ways," Ciaccio said. He described a major difference between Americans and Chinese by their sources of transportation.

"Families of four fit on one moped rather than using cars, which they are unable to afford," he said.

The Ciaccios were truly honored by their eight day visit. "It really was a chance of a lifetime," they agreed.

HAIR COLORING NUANCES

Anyone with fine, limp or dull hair can benefit from hair coloring because it adds texture, body and shine to hair. Which type of hair coloring to use is largely a matter of personal taste. Semi-permanent color produces a richer shade of a person's own natural color. It is also peroxide-free, produces no visible root lines, and washes out gradually over a period of about three to eight weeks. Permanent hair coloring, on the other hand, will not wash out. It penetrates the hair shaft to deposit color in the hair's cortex. As for glazing, it utilizes vegetable dye with a small trace of peroxide to brighten natural color with a subtle halo of amber, red or gold color. It, too, gradually washes out over a six to eight week period.

If you are thinking of coloring your hair, let our experts give you the professional look you deserve at SHAWSHEEN HAIR

SALON, 161 Shawsheen Ave., Rt. 129, Wilmington, (508) 658-9475. Hours: open six days and nights of the week, closed Sun. We offer you radiant and rich color with the finest products from Matrix. Our salon uses only environmentally safe products.

Moderation and socolorizing are both Matrix semi permanent hair colors - which is right for you? Ask the specialists at Shawsheen.

HINT: Highlighting features coloring on selected strands of hair to produce a contrasting effect with natural hair coloring.

This stroke victim has an art exhibit

By DOUGLAS WOOD-BOYLE

Elinor Weiss is a good person to look at when people start to think that having a stroke is completely debilitating and that life, as they know it, will never be the same.

The truth, as personified in Weiss, is that some changes will have to be made but life goes on and can be just as rewarding.

Weiss had her first stroke at the age of 45 and it did make a change. Mainly she had to give up her oil paints. However, she did not have to give up her art work. Instead she went on to learn the techniques behind watercolors.

When declining health put learning those techniques on the back burner, Weiss still went forward with a positive attitude.

Although she now lives at the Somerset Nursing Home in Reading, art is still a big part of her life. As if to underscore the point, Weiss is now a member of the Reading Arts Commission. She has served with the group for the past two years.

The nursing home is so proud of their resident artist they will have a showing of her works on January 19, from 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Between 12 and 14 of Weiss' early oil paintings will be on display at that time.

She noted that the watercolors still need to be matted and framed and therefore will not be shown.

Weiss first discovered her interest in art when she was about 14-years-old. The daughter of the late Edith (Erickson) and Otis Johnson, she had moved with her family from Lewiston, Maine to Manchester, New Hampshire.

While there she found herself going into the woods and sketching the nature scenes.

One of the scenes, a waterfall, won Weiss a scholarship to an art school. However, the scholarship was never used.

Eventually the family moved back to Edith's hometown of Woburn, where they lived on Main Street.

Weiss noted that she did not get much encouragement about her art work from her high school teachers, except from her art teacher.

After high school, Weiss got married and had the first of her six children, three sons - John, Russell, and Steven - and three daughters - Ellen, Amy and Joanne.

However, she found time to attend Northeastern University and Merrimack College where she took drawing courses.

Eventually she became a member of the Woburn Guild of Artists and was president of the group at one point.

Weiss' artistic talent seems to have skipped around in her family. She remembers that one aunt used to do paintings and has heard about a couple of cousins that are artists.

None of her children are displaying any artistic talent. However, Weiss said that two grandchildren, have displayed some talent.

Weiss' paintings have appeared in the Woburn National Bank as a part of the 1976 Bicentennial.

She has also had showings with the various area art guilds and societies.

As to learning the techniques of water colors, Weiss said that it took her 20-years to learn how to paint with oils and she expects it will take that long to learn how to do water colors.

"You keep meeting people who are better than you and they say

NO ONE TOLD ELINOR WEISS that it was too difficult to paint lilacs so she went ahead and did it. Weiss' promising art career has been put on hold as she relearns how to walk after being debilitated by a stroke and other medical problems, which she has not let get her down.

why don't you do this, so you do," Weiss said.

However, Weiss has already won an award in a Woburn Guild of Artists show for a painting she did that combined the use of pastel chalks with water colors.

The painting was copied from an Israeli Calendar showing that country's ruling body, the Knesset. Weiss said that the calendar was a gift to her from her daughter-in-law who is from Israel.

Weiss first did the watercolors and then used the chalk in the creation.

About the Towns

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 10-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your town. We also welcome original material—please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

TRAFFIC CENTER - "Stop sign adds excitement to busy intersection" is the headline which directs attention to the following information in the Wilmington edition of the "Town Crier."

"A new stop sign at the intersection of Lowell and Main streets has caused a sensation in Wilmington," notes the article.

"The sign was put up last Friday at the intersection of Routes 129 and 38 by a Mass. DPW crew. The sign was knocked down the same day.

"One local observer said he didn't know if someone hit it by accident trying to avoid a rear-end collision, or if someone just flattened it.

"A DPW crew replaced the signpost faster than you can say Massachusetts Department of Public Works...."

LYNNFIELD CENTER - According to "The Lynnfield Villager," Lynnfield will continue to use a single tax rate for all classifications of property.

The town has always had one rate for all properties - although in the past town officials have considered establishing a different rate for commercial property.

At first, Selectmen felt that lowering the residential rate and increasing the commercial rate would ease the tax burden for residents and produce more tax revenue from business. However, after objections from the Assessors and business community, they reconsidered, noting with the Assessors that the town would be faced with costly abatements and that most of the business owner are also residents.

If Lynnfield used the minimum residential factor as cities do, residential taxes would drop five percent and the commercial tax rate would increase 50 percent - driving many businesses out of town.

ZOO CENTER - The Friends to Reopen Stone Zoo will hold its monthly meeting at 7 p.m. on January 14th at the Stoneham Public Library. For more info, call (617) 438-7459.

FAMILY CENTER - Wide Horizons for Children in Waltham is looking for families to adopt children from several of its new programs such as those in India, Colombia and the Philippines.

"Children who need families are there!" notes Executive Director Vicki Peterson. "They need financial support now, and ultimately, they need a permanent family. Help carry the message to others who can help provide financial support and those who may be interested in adopting a child who needs a family."

For more info, call (617) 894-5330.

SENIOR CENTER - The Town of Reading has been selected to receive a $757,000 state grant with which to transform its former fire station into a state-of-the-art senior center.

For every dollar awarded, the state had $3 worth of requests - the grant is one of only five fully funded grants issued by the state to its cities and towns.

According to Reading Town Manager Peter Hechenbleikner in the Reading edition of the Daily Times Chronicle, the grant will "do the job - soup to nuts," converting the former fire house, installing an elevator for easy access to the second floor, refurbishing the building's brick exterior, doing the plumbing, and installing a complete kitchen.

Credit and congratulations are due State Sen. Richard Tisei (R-Wakefield), Elder Services Director Lois - let them eat chocolate - Bond who is "ecstatic," Reading Town Planner Jonathan Edwards, State Rep. Rob Kerkorian, and State Sen. Robert Buell.

Out of town birth

MR. and MRS. KEVIN SURETTE (Lisa Pavadore) of Peabody announce the birth of their daughter, Kelley Patricia, on November 5, 1991. Grandparent honors are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Surette of Reading, Mrs. Gloria Pavadore of Salem and Mr. Anthony Pavadore of Braintree. Great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Conti and Mrs. Bridget Surette, all of Reading and Mr. and Mrs. Domenic Mazzarini of Tampa, Florida.

At Health Center

Pulmonary Rehabilitation

Beginning in January, the Regional Health Center in Wilmington will offer a Pulmonary Rehabilitation Program. An extension of the Pulmonary Rehabilitation Program at Winchester Hospital, the program assists patients with chronic obstructive pulmonary disorders such as asthma, emphysema and chronic bronchitis, and helps them overcome the limitations of their condition to enjoy a more satisfying life.

"This is a unique pulmonary rehabilitation program because it's tailored to meet the individual needs of each patient," says Joseph Pappalardo, Director of Respiratory Services at Winchester Hospital. He explains that the first week of the 10-week program is all diagnostic, starting with a complete Pulmonary Exercise Stress Test. The stress test determines a patient's anaerobic threshold -- the point where the body stops making oxygen.

In 30 sessions (three each week), program members are helped by five different medical disciplines from the Regional Health Center in Wilmington. The program consists of sessions with a respiratory therapist, a physical therapist, a nutritionist, a registered nurse or pharmacist and representatives from the Social Services Department, who address a patient's needs in coping with a chronic illness.

Patients attending the program meet in small groups and discuss problems they have in common - everything from how to monitor their own status, to relaxation techniques.

Janice Doren, Outpatient Supervisor at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington who supervises the program says, "The program is very individualized. At the beginning of a 10-week session, one patient who had emphysema told me he couldn't walk from his house to his car without having severe dyspnea, or shortness of breath. At the end of the program, he was not only walking to his car, but resumed driving it and even was able to go places for short periods of time. Though we can't make the chronic disease disappear, we help educate patients about their disease and help them lead more fulfilling, independent lives."

Following the 10-week program, patients can continue to receive support and information through The Regional Health Center in Wilmington's monthly "Breathing Support Group" sessions. The sessions include exercise and are led by a physical therapist.

For more information about the Pulmonary Rehabilitation Program or to receive a free brochure, call the Rehabilitation Department at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington at (508) 657-3910.

Artist

From S-1
placed upon her now, Weiss said that she misses two things, being able to drive and being able to swim.
"You have to give up some things to gain other things," she philosophizes.
However, her mind has not been affected at all. "I think that it is very important that people know what is going on in Reading," Weiss said.
As she is keeping her mind sharp by being involved, she is also helping other people.
"I enjoy doing work and encouraging other stroke patients," she noted.
Pam Jones, an assistant activities director at the home said that Weiss is very active in all the activities, including the arts and crafts sessions.
Jones related one incident in a class, where Weiss was sitting next to another stroke patient.

According to Jones, "She just kept coaxing the other patient to draw a good picture." The result was a picture of a palm tree and some coconuts.
Teaching comes naturally to the artist who used to do it in her Woburn home. One of her students went on to win an award.
Doing things that can't be done is part of Weiss' nature. She has a painting of lilacs in a vase, hanging in her room, that was painted before her first stroke.
Weiss relates the story of a woman at the Lexington Arts Society who said "Is that a picture of lilacs? You can't paint lilacs."
Weiss said because I didn't know they were difficult to paint I just went ahead and did it. She also went ahead and painted another smaller picture of lilacs.

62% express concern

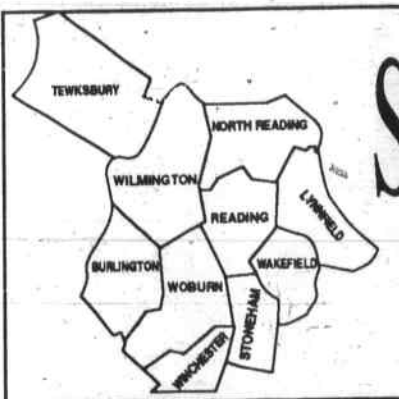

Employees concerned about jobs

Sixty-two percent of U.S. employees are concerned or partly concerned about the long-term security of their jobs, according to Wyatt WorkUSA™, a statistically representative sampling of employee attitudes in the private sector.
One of the hardest hit regions of the country is New England. Sixty-six percent of New England employees expressed some concern about the security of their jobs.
"Widespread fear among employees about losing their jobs is having a disruptive impact on work activities," said Bruce Katcher, a consultant for The Wyatt Company in Boston. Katcher added, "The constant fear that their jobs are in jeopardy is paralyzing many workers and preventing them from meeting important job responsibilities."

Poor performers aren't the only ones worrying about their jobs. Only a little over half of U.S. employees, 55% feel their company provides good job security to employees who perform well.
"Many employees feel their job security is simply out of their control," Katcher said. "Employees have seen that good employees have also lost their jobs and poor performance is often tolerated too long among others."

The study revealed that generally hourly employees are more concerned about their jobs than salaried employees, union employees more than on-union, and men more than women.
Wyatt WorkUSA™ is a carefully designed national survey of workers' attitudes about their jobs, management, pay, benefits, and other key workplace issues. The survey involved over 5,800 individuals representing all geographic areas, industries, and job levels. A complimentary copy of the Executive Summary of Wyatt WorkUSA™ is available upon request by calling Bruce Katcher, The Wyatt Company, (617) 237-3222 Ext. 713.

The Wyatt Company is an international consulting firm specializing in the areas of human resources, financial and risk management, and systems, with over 3,700 employees in 70 cities around the world.

School notes

by phyllis nissen

—Thanks to the efforts of Stoneham Assistant Superintendent of Schools Dr. Ellen Buesschel, the Stoneham School System is one of five in the country to have been chosen to participate in Columbus Discoveries, a quinquennial program funded by private businesses and corporations.

In celebration of the 500th anniversary of Christopher Columbus' journey to the New World, Stoneham fourth and fifth graders will experience his trip through satellite communications with a group of educators who will sail Columbus' route next fall.

Twelve Stoneham educators have already made a trip to Daytona Beach, Florida - with all expenses paid through private funding. They are Robin Hood School Principal Robert Grant, Program Supervisor Patricia Norelli, and fourth and fifth grade teachers Margaret Burke, Margaret Cummings, Deanna Day, Sonja Enstad, Phillip Inman, Ron Peterson, Ruby Saltmarsh, Linda Secondini, William Taylor, and Mary Velluto.

—The Woburn High chapter of the National Honor Society recently held a fundraising drive on behalf of needy Woburn families, with the Woburn Council of Social Concern administering the proceeds.

National Honor Society officers are Jon Hartmere, president; Francis Mulcahy, vice president; Jason Perry, treasurer; and Michele Tramonte, secretary.

—Reading's Birch Meadow School Holiday Fair Coordinators Carol Ross and Sue Berger would like to thank the many people involved in making the fair such a success.

They say a special thank you to the following middle and high school students who volunteered their time: Liz Dearborn, Melissa Richards, Page Perkins, Jen Connor, Julie Draper, Candace Goodrich, Jessica Parr, Kathryn Rotondo, Cathy Svirsky, Kristin Kerr, and Jennifer Surrante.

—Laurie Schmidt's sixth and seventh grade students at Winchester's McCall Middle School recently completed a print-making project called collagraphy in which they designed and crafted their own mixed media relief plate based on imagery introduced to them through the film "Orange and Blue."

After constructing and waterproofing their projects, they inked, rubbed and printed raised relief plates using a hand-crank press with felt blankets.

—Lynnfield was the only Massachusetts school system to be visited recently by educators Janet Hartnett and Michael Sherry of Melbourne, Australia who are also visiting Ohio, Oregon, California, Hawaii, Scotland, and England to study "alternative assessment and the middle school concept."

Lynnfield Director of Curriculum Anthony Roselli gave them the grand local tour.

—Wilmington's Wildwood School students recently decorated bags from Lucci's with scenes from their favorite books or about some aspect of their lives at school - and those bags were distributed to appreciative Lucci's customers just in time for the holidays.

CHOCOLATE LOVERS' DELIGHT IN WOBURN

Share the decadence at the 2nd Annual "Chocolate Lovers' Delight" to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association on Sunday, February 2, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Radisson Hotel in Woburn.

Chocolate lovers from Greater Boston and the North Shore will indulge in a vast array of mouth-watering chocolate creations presented by the area's finest restaurants, bakeries and chocolatiers.

MDA is looking for area businesses to share sample size portions of their favorite chocolate creation. Each participant will be responsible for set-up on the day of the event, decorating their booth and providing 700 samples of their chocolate specialty.

In addition to tantalizing one's taste buds, the "Chocolate Lovers' Delight" will feature live music, a wine tasting, People's Choice Award, chocolate making demonstrations, a Treasure Chest filled with tasty treats to win, contests, refreshments and much more!

Sponsors so far this year are Warner Cable and New England Convenience Store Association.

Over 400 chocoholics came to the 1st Annual Chocolate Lover's Delight making it a huge success. Call MDA at 508-777-0333 with questions.

Two weekends are scheduled for Friday, January 31 through Sunday, February 2 and Friday, February 28 through Sunday, March 1. Each weekend features a two hour seal cruise out of Chatham to observe seals and sea ducks, an afternoon winter beach walk looking for seals, winter birds, and marine invertebrates, an evening owl prow, a morning bird walk, and a natural history slide presentation on "Winter on Cape Cod."

Up to 1000 seals are regularly seen on the seal cruises. Overnight accommodations in a secluded house overlooking scenic Nauset Marsh and a catered dinner are also included. For more information about participating in a Cape Cod Winter Weekend.

contact the Wellfleet Bay Wildlife Sanctuary at (508) 349-2615.

CONSORTIUM OFFERS FOUR MULTIDISCIPLINARY COURSES

The Massachusetts Bay Marine Studies Consortium, an association of 19 colleges, universities, museums and marine research centers, announces registration for its four courses in marine science and policy.

The courses are: 1) The Maritime History of New England; 2) Into the Ocean World: Marine Studies Seminar; 3) Marine Mammals: Biology and Conservation; and 4) Water: Planning for the Future.

Registrants may audit the courses, or take college credit through the University of Massachusetts Division of Continuing Education. Scheduled on different evenings, once a week from 5:30 to 8 p.m., the courses begin during the last week of January and end during the last week of April. Registrations will be accepted up to and including the first day of each class.

Hosting institutions for the courses in 1992 are the M.I.T. Sea Grant College Program, UMass-Boston, the New England Aquarium, and Tufts University. All are easily accessible by public transportation.

The course, Marine Mammals: Biology and Conservation, is the only undergraduate offering taught on this topic in Massachusetts. While registration for this popular course requires some previous college-level biology as a pre-requisite, it is designed for non-biology majors. All courses are geared to those who wish to increase their knowledge of coastal and marine issues.

For more information about the courses, fees, and how to register, call the Massachusetts Bay Marine Studies Consortium at (617) 287-6540, or write to P.O. Box 660, Boston, MA 02125.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED FOR EXCHANGE PROGRAM

There are now over 98 million Americans who volunteer their time and talent to non-profit organizations. Catch the spirit of volunteerism by joining ASSE International as an Area Representative.

ASSE is a high school student exchange organization looking for volunteers in this area to promote and assist in administering our well-respected program. By interviewing families interested in hosting and acting as a counselor for European and North American teenagers, persons will meet some interesting and wonderful people. In addition, ASSE will provide training and reimburse expenses.

Call Sue Antila at (603) 880-0949 or toll-free 1-800-677-ASSE.

GLOBE COLUMNIST TO SPEAK IN WAKEFIELD

Creative Strategies has the pleasure of hosting yet another wonderful speaker, award winning writer and Boston Globe columnist Linda Weltner, Wednesday evening, January 15. In this seminar entitled "The Myth of Having it All," Linda will focus upon the modern woman and her search for a meaningful life along with the many contradictions faced along her journey.

Many readers know Linda from her weekly column "Ever So Humble," appearing on Fridays in the Globe's At Home Section. A few years ago, she was presented with the New England Women's Press Association Award for the Best Columnist. In her weekly column, Linda captures the pleasures, pressures and conflicts of the contemporary woman who still maintains some solid old-fashioned values. Undoubtedly many have also discovered her wonderful book "No Place Like Home."

Come and participate in Linda's wit and humor as she takes a hard look at the values promoted by our American society as a way of raising the question - What does it take to be happy? The seminar will take place on Wednesday, January 15, 7:30 p.m. at Creative Strategies Yoga Center, 20 DelCarmino St., Wakefield. The fee is $15. To pre-register, call Monica Veneziano, (617) 224-0722.

ROARING JELLY CONTRA DANCE

On the third Friday, January 17, St. John's Episcopal Church, 74 Pleasant St. (corner of Lombard Rd.) in Arlington Center will sponsor a dance from 8 to 11 p.m. There will be a $4 admission, with children under 12 free.

The music director is Doug Reiner and caller is Susan Elberger. Newcomers and singles are welcome.

Please bring gentle clean shoes. For more information call (617) 894-4464 or 641-3631.

Overweight Child?

Did you know that 80-85% of obese boys and girls are still fat 20 years later?

Did you know that every fat cell acquired during childhood remains for a lifetime?

BUT there is new hope for overweight youngsters.

WINNERS! is a new program designed by a clinical psychologist, a nutritionist and fitness consultant and a parent educator.

It is not a diet program. Diets make children feel angry, ashamed and dependent on others to make decisions. Diets are bad for children.

WINNERS! is a self-esteem and behavior modification group for boys and girls, ages 6-11. Youngsters attend an after-school group. Their parents attend a 10 week course, Parent Effectiveness Training, to learn to support their children in refocusing behavior.

WINNERS! will begin in Winchester in February. Call for a free application and brochure.

TEACHERS' EXHIBIT AT LEXINGTON ARTS & CRAFTS SOCIETY

The Lexington Arts and Crafts Society, 130 Waltham Street, Lexington will be holding a Teachers' Exhibit through January 25 on Tuesdays through Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The exhibit features the work of the wonderfully talented people who teach at the Society. Lexington Arts and Crafts Society offers classes open to members and non-members in painting, ceramics, jewelry and silver-smithing and weaving.

On Saturday, January 11, painting instructor Ruth Berman has offered to be in the Gallery with her paints and brushes and talk informally about her work. The other instructors have been invited to join Ms. Berman in demonstrating or just conversing.

Admission is free plus there is ample parking. For further information call (617) 862-9696.

ALL-BREED DOG SHOW AND OBEDIENCE TRIAL

The Greater Lowell Kennel Club and the Merrimack Valley Kennel Club will hold their Annual All-Breed Dog Show and Obedience Trial on Saturday, January 11 and Sunday, January 12 at the Royal Plaza Trade Center, 150 Royal Plaza Drive in Fitchburg. Admission is $4; Senior Citizen, $3; children under 12 free.

There will be an Obedience Demonstration on Saturday at 12 noon. Come and see the Dogs Play Fly Ball. Show hours are 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

For further information call Ed McKenna, (617) 643-0652.

SQUARE DANCING IN ANDOVER

A Square and Contra Dance, called by Sarah Gregory Smith, will be held January 17 from 8 to 11 p.m. at the Old Town Hall, 20 Main St. (Rt. 28), Andover. Admission is $5 per person.

The dance is sponsored by South Church of Andover and NEFFA. Call (508) 475-0321 or (508) 470-2797 with questions.

MWH HAS THE "WAY TO LOSE"

You've tried every way to lose weight, but none of them have worked. But there is one way left.

Beginning Tuesday, January 21 from 1 to 3 p.m. and Thursday, January 23 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., The Weight To Lose, a weight loss program featuring behavior modification guidelines and a healthy diet, will be offered again at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital.

This successfully proven program for losing weight will be led by MWH Dietitian Pam DeGennaro who will help you take off, and keep off, excess weight.

The cost for The Weight To Lose is $100. A $10 deposit is due when registering for the course with the remaining balance due upon confirmation. Class sizes are limited to 15 people on a first-come, first-serve basis. The deadline for registration is Tuesday, January 14. To register, call (617) 979-3185.

TSL DANCE IN TEWKSBURY

The Reading Chapter of The Single Life (TSL) will be sponsoring a singles dance at 8 p.m., Saturday, January 11 at the Knights of Columbus, Rt. 38, 2068 main St., Tewksbury. Donation of $6.

For more information call (617) 942-0165.

"SERENDIPITY" SATURDAY MORNING BREAKFAST CLUB

Beginning Saturday, January 11, at 8 a.m. the "Serendipity" Saturday Morning Breakfast Club will begin meeting at the Lynnfield Community Church, 735 Salem Street, Lynnfield.

Each Saturday morning, the group will meet for a breakfast of bacon, sausage, eggs, toast, pancakes and coffee. Then the group will gather in small groups, whose leaders rotate from week to week, and talk and explore such diverse subjects as "life styles," "wholeness," "stress," "money," "family," "current events," "Bible," or whatever the group wants to explore.

Serendipity is the gift of being able to make delightful discoveries by pure accident. Plato, the ancient Greek philosopher expounded the "freedom of thought" and Newton sat under an apple tree when quite by accident he discovered gravity. We all remember Euripides when he yelled, "Eureka!" Let's we forget, Snoopy spotted the Red Baron. History is full of serendipity.

If interested in being a part of this group, please come - all are welcome. The cost is $2 and it includes the breakfast. For further information contact the church at (617) 599-4421.

THE AMERICAN DREAM -- FINANCIAL SECURITY

Art Zavarella, Financial Consultant, will conduct a Financial Workshop at the Lynnfield Community Church, 735 Salem St., on Thursday, January 9, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The cost is $5 per person or married couple. No advance registration is necessary.

This workshop is appropriate for persons with incomes between $25,000-$150,000 per year; for those who would like to plan for financial security; for those who have problems with debt and with controlling their money. Please bring paper, pencil and calculator.

Mr. Zavarella has presented several financial programs at the church in the past. He has an excellent grasp of the field of money, budgeting and investments. he can help persons plan ahead for financial security.

For those who would like to grab a bite to eat away from home prior to the workshop, the church kitchen will be open for soup, sandwiches, burgers and dogs starting at 6 p.m.

For further information contact the church at (617) 599-4421.

HOSPICE OFFERS BEREAVEMENT SUPPORT

An on-going Bereavement Support Group is offered by Merrimack Valley Hospice, second and fourth Mondays of each month, in the Rectory of Sacred Hearts Roman Catholic Church (white house behind the church at 165 South Main St., Andover) from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Participants may enter and leave the group at any time. No pre-registration is necessary.

Call the hospice at (508) 470-1615 if additional information is needed.

ASTHMA LECTURE AT LAHEY CLINIC

Asthma, which is a life-threatening condition for some individuals, affects approximately 10 million people.

Joseph E. Kelleher, M.D., of Lahey Clinic's Department of Allergy and Dermatology, will address the topic "Asthma" on Tuesday, January 14 at the Clinic.

The cause of asthma is the partial obstruction of airway passages of the lungs due to bronchial muscle contraction and swelling and inflammation of the bronchial walls. These abnormalities reduce the air flow into and out of the lungs, causing wheezing, coughing and breathlessness.

Unfortunately, there is no cure for asthma. "However," says Dr. Kelleher, "acute attacks and chronic asthma can be relieved by treatment."

The condition is different for each patient, with symptoms ranging from mild to severe. As a result, it requires individual treatment and proper management of asthma requires the involvement of a knowledgeable physician.

In his lecture, Dr. Kelleher will give an overview of asthma and speak specifically about asthma not just being a disease of bronchial obstruction, but a disease of inflammation. He'll also discuss treatment for asthma.

The lecture, free and open to the public, will be held in the cafeteria conference room at 7:30 p.m. at the Lahey Clinic, 41 Mall Road, Burlington. Pre-registration is not required. It is the fourth of a series of monthly "Focus on Health" lectures sponsored by the Clinic.

For more information, or to request a complete listing of the remaining lectures, call the Department of Public Affairs at (617) 273-8733.

WORKSHOPS AT LYMAN ESTATE GREENHOUSES

Two workshops will be conducted at Historic Lyman Estate Greenhouses in Waltham.

In the first workshop individuals can learn the basic principles of floral design with a trained instructor. In this three-session workshop, persons will be taught to make a round centerpiece, a long and low centerpiece and a line arrangement. The correct usage of flowers, greenery and containers will be discussed and demonstrated.

This will be held on Tuesdays, January 28, February 4 and 11 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. The fee is $40 for SPNEA members; $45 for non-members or $18 each individual session.

Or, try beginning orchid growing and learn the essentials of growing orchids, one of the most beautiful and dramatic of all flowering plants. Requirements of growing media, light, water, temperature, fertilization and repotting will be taught in this two-part workshop. Successful orchid growing does not depend on a greenhouse! Participants will take home an orchid propagated from the Lyman Estate collection.

This workshop will be held on Wednesdays, March 18 and 25 from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The fee is $25 SPNEA members; $30 non-members.

Workshops fill quickly; to avoid disappointment, register early or call Lynn Ackerman, Horticulturist at (617) 891-7095 for more information.

FIRST, YOU CAN'T SWALLOW.
THEN YOU CAN'T SPEAK.
FINALLY, YOU CAN'T BREATHE.

You have ALS — "Lou Gehrig's disease." Gradually, you'll become unable to walk or use your hands. You'll find yourself drooling. Your reflexes will disappear.

Your mind, however, will remain completely clear, leaving you a frustrated prisoner in a body you can't control.

ALS is a fatal neuromuscular disorder that attacks adults in the prime of life. Right now, no cure is known. But the Muscular Dystrophy Association has launched an all-out assault against this dread disease.

MDA has developed the world's largest integrated ALS research and patient services program. The Association has established five major ALS research centers and maintains some 230 clinics to help people with ALS and other neuromuscular disorders. And MDA is the only voluntary health agency that provides patients with a wide range of medical care and equipment free of charge.

You can help MDA fight ALS and dozens of other neuromuscular disorders by making a tax-deductible donation to the Association. You can even specify that your check is to be used exclusively to benefit ALS patients.

There are 20,000 ALS patients in America who can't write checks or even read this ad out loud. Please send your contribution to MDA today.

ANTHONY MANCONI

Happy New Year to all. The following "Chips" are what I consider the best of the year. Aunt Nora, who is looking over my shoulder, wants you to know that there isn't any difference between my best and the worst. Here goes anyway....George Gould experienced a remarkable improvement in his hearing after taking a new medicine. The makers of this new elixir asked George for a testimonial. George obliged saying, "After taking your medicine for two weeks I 'heard' from my brother in California."

I guess everybody does a little extra house cleaning before the holidays. Clara Moore was surprised to find four empty whiskey bottles in back of a closet shelf. When her handsome husband, Roger Moore, came home from work from Boston Gas, Clara confronted him with the evidence saying, "What do you know about these 'dead soldiers'?" Roger put up his left and said, "I swear Clara, I've never in my life bought any 'empty' whiskey bottles!"

Sal DiCarlo took up horse back riding to reduce his weight. The results were excellent for the horse - it lost 25 pounds. Donny Dembro went fishing last summer with Broadsound Tuna Club member Peter Wu. Peter was catching fish, one after another, while Donny didn't even get a bite. He said to Peter, "Toss me one of your largest fish. I want to tell my sweetheart, Sharon Bouvier, that I 'caught' it." Marsala Dion is my Personality Winner of the year. Linda O'Hara has a great sense of humor -- she married Eddie, didn't she. A wedding ring should function like a tourniquet - it should "stop" the circulation. The three rings of marriage are the engagement ring, the wedding ring and suffering!

I remember when the late Uncle John Shea was in his eighties but danced up a storm. He took a real live bombshell to a dance at the Moose Hall, set his pacemaker up a little and started dancing. The next number was a Polish Polka, so Uncle John set the pacemaker up another notch. He then grabbed his partner and whirled away. Two minutes later he slumped to the floor. Joe Marshall ran over and asked, "Shall I call a doctor?" "No need to," the blonde beauty replied, "just call the Triple A. I'm sure they can jump start him!"

Personality Winners - Celeste Wilson, Emilio and Esther Garbarino, Barbara Neale, Librarian Mary Todd and Jerry Benuck, all of Stoneham; Ken and Elaine Binding, Edmond and Marie Baratta, Pamela MacKil, Jim Fitzgerald and Saf Marchese, all of Winchester; Lorraine Kalil, Diane Allan, Kristi Lyman, Stephanie Poulin and Danielle Poulin, all of Wilmington; Monica Berube, Mary Horgan, Patricia McLaughlin, Oliver Weiss and Dianne Sanborn, all of Tewksbury; Steve and Rosemary Adams, Don and Sharon Buckley, Mike Antczak, Jim Murphy and Catherine Hedberg, all of Reading; Fred Brizee, Julio Encarnacao, John Walsh, Paul Moccia and Jennifer McPhail, all of Wakefield; Rev. Francis McGann, Rev. Vincent Mellone, Maria Milano, Maureen Brenna, Tom Kinton and Brian O'Donnell, all of Woburn; Karek Musto, Katie Musto, Jeannie Greely, Jason Clifford and Leland Preble, all of Burlington; Firefighters Jim Brady and Richard Mosack, Librarian Miriam Allen, Jean McDonald, Marie Stultz and Stacy Onessimo, all of North Reading; Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jeffrey Young, Anne Patriquin, Karole McLaughlin and Frank Lemoure, all of Lynnfield; Stacie Gallagher, Metro Captain Joseph Leuci and Lt. William McKay of the Metro Police and Robert Fawcett, all of Saugus.

A camel is a horse put together by a committee. Folks, a Halo doesn't have to slip very far to become a "noose." Billy Wood is proud of his daughter Debbie Wood who is a champion figure skater. She is an expert doing figure 8's. The only way I can do a figure 8 is to fall down twice on all four's.

The hardest thing about taking medicine today is taking the darn cap off the bottle. When Christopher Columbus landed, he was surprised to be greeted by Indians. He asked a chief, "How in the world did you get here ahead of me?" The Indian chief smiled and replied, "I had 'reservations'!" Many a man has fallen in love with a girl in light so dim he wouldn't have chosen a suit by it. Sometimes I wonder if yesterday's kids, who broke all their toys, grew up and got elected to public offices and that's why now the state is broke! A judge asked a defendant, "You look familiar, have you been up before me?" "I don't know, your honor. What time do you get up?"

Mary Gallagher is a kindergarten teacher at the Immaculate Conception School. One day she had the children sing that delightful ditty, "The Old Gray Mare." Afterwards Mary asked, "Does anyone know what an old gray mare is?" Little Dennis O'Brien piped up, "Teacher, I think it's the 'guy' who runs the city!" My Aunt Nora's daughter, Diane, said between sobs, "Mom, I'm going to teach my husband, Dan, a lesson. I'm going to live with you." "Honey," Aunt Nora told her, "If you want to teach Dan a 'good' lesson, take me home with you and I will live with both of you!"

I was in Reardon's one night last week and when I belched Kevin Fisher turned to me and exclaimed, "How dare you belch before my wife!" "Gee, I'm sorry Kevin, I said apologizing, 'I didn't know it was your wife Shirley's turn to belch!' The Idaho Potato Growers Association refused to have Walter Cronkite as its convention speaker because Walter is a "Common-later!"

I came home from work and Kathy handed me a letter saying, "Here, Fatso, this letter is for you. I thought it was for me and I 'steamed' it open by mistake!" I didn't learn anything in the third grade. My teacher was so fat every time she turned around she 'erased' the blackboard! Bob Giguere said, "I never tell people how great I am. I let them find that out for themselves. Further more, I got where I am today by the seat of my pants." "I'm not a bit surprised," Larry Flynn told him, "that's where you really shine!"

My Aunt Nora called her new maid and said, "Look Matilda, I can write my name in the dust on the dining room table!" "Golly, Ma'am," the maid declared, "Ain't education wonderful!" I remember when I took Kathy out to dinner. The waiter brought Kathy's order right away but when he finally brought mine I asked him, "Why have you got your thumb on my fish?" "Sir," he replied, "I don't want the fish to 'slide' off the tray again!"

Many of us are concerned about the air quality. I am aware that the pollution from auto and truck exhausts present a major problem. I must admit however, that the horse and buggy days weren't so hot either - especially the horse's "emission control" which was nothing to brag about!

Tony Stack said that in Ireland, one of the highest compliments a gentleman can give a beautiful Colleen is to say, "Come into my garden dear, I want the roses to see you."

Check list for keeping fuel costs down

As the temperature drops during winter, heating bills can skyrocket. To help keep them more manageable, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau offers these helpful fuel conservation tips:

1. Check insulation for walls, ceilings and floors. Proposed minimum standards suggest 3 1/2" insulation in and under floors over unheated spaces, and 6" insulation over ceilings.
2. If you don't have storm windows and doors to reduce heat transmission and air leakage, use high-quality weatherstripping around windows and doors.
3. Caulk all cracks around door and window frames and at the foundation.
4. Keep the doors of an attached garage closed. If the garage is heated, maintain temperature at about 40°F.
5. If a basement is heated, properly insulate the walls and seal cracks at the foundation, windows and doors. If possible, install storm sash.
6. If your home is built over a crawl space, make sure its ventilating grilles are closed and air tight during the heating season.
7. Close the fireplace damper when the fireplace is not in use. With the damper open, the warm air in the room will be drawn up the chimney.
8. Repair or replace hot water faucets if they drip. Always close securely after use.
9. Keep your water heater setting as low as possible. Experts recommend no higher than 130°F.
10. During the day, open drapes to help heat rooms on sunny side of the house. Close them at night for extra insulation.

Sturbridge Village has many winter attractions

This winter, Old Sturbridge Village in Sturbridge is offering a variety of historical hands-on and evening programs for visitors of all ages. Highlights include preparing a hearthside meal in the candle-lit historic Richardson Parsonage on the Village Common and learning to turn a sheet of metal into a useful household object. Visitors may step back in time to the 19th-century to learn and experience these and more programs instructed by teachers and costumed interpreters. The following programs are offered this winter at Old Sturbridge Village.

Through March 27 - Winter Adventures. Special participatory programs offered weekdays in selected exhibits. The twenty minute programs are offered throughout the day and are included in the regular admission fee. Included among the 14 programs are:

A Taste of the 1830s. Help prepare apple fritters using an 1838 recipe at the Richardson Parsonage.

Cut it out! Making a Cookie Cutter. Transform tinned sheet metal into a cookie cutter which can use at home.

February 8 through March 28 - Family Discovery Workshops. Offered on Saturdays, 10 to 11:30 a.m. or 12:30 to 2 p.m. at the Museum Education Department. Workshops offered to families with children in grades three to eight. Adult participation is required; fee and registration required. Workshops offered are: Learning a Trade: Printing. Participants explore what it was like to be a printer by becoming an apprentice to the trade and using a reproduction printing press. Learn to make decorative marbled paper or bind a small book.

January 4 through March 7 - It's Magic. Offered on Saturdays at 8:30 p.m.; fee and registration required. Enjoy two centuries of magic in one evening. Watch Harry Ames, a noisy, rowdy and funny magician from the streets of 18th-century London and Richard Potter, America's first native born magician, display their elegant conjuring and humor. Both magicians rely on audience participation.

February 7 through 28 - Village by Candlelight. Offered on Fridays 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.; fee and registration required. Enjoy an evening of fun and food at the Bullard Tavern. Relax by the fire, while learning to play a 19th-century game and enjoy a variety of diversions and entertainment of the 1830s. Enjoy the strolling Village musicians, the sounds of a 19th-century pipe organ in the Center Meetinghouse, and the tales of Old New England in the Asa Knight Store. Plus, experience a horse-drawn sleigh ride (snow permitting) or wagon ride down the Village Common illuminated with tin lanterns.

Through March 28 - Dinner in a Country Village. Offered on Saturdays, 5 to 9:30 p.m.; fee and registration required. Limited to 14 participants, ages 14 and older. Help prepare and feast on a 19th-century hearthside meal at the historic candle-lit Richardson Parsonage using period implements, recipes and techniques. Relax and enjoy an 1830s story or maybe a song or two.
